Pentagon Officials Ask Family Housing Units

Army, Navy and Marine Corps officials have presented family housing plans, involving thousands of units, to the Armed Services Committees. Details are published on the next page.
Last week's issue of THE JOURNAL told of Air Force proposals for 8,118 units.

AF Academy Takes Off From Plans

THE Air Force Academy becomes a reality on 11 July when 301 cadets, including many Sons of the Service (Page 1146), report to Lowry AFB, Colo., as members of USAFA '59.
Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott has made public architects' designs for the new Academy, including the above photograph which shows a scale table model looking to the southeast across the campus and academic area. Elevated on the right is the Cadet Chapel and in clockwise order are the Administration Building, Cadet Social Center, Cadet Quarters, Academic and Library Building and Cadet Dining Hall. The hospital is to the right rear of the Dining Hall.

President Says Loss of Commissary-PX Privileges "Would Be Terrible Injustice"

President Eisenhower, cautioning against their possible abuse, has declared that loss of Commissary and PX privileges by military families "would be a terrible injustice."

The Chief Executive was asked to give his views on Commissaries and PX's during his news conference on 18 May.

Earlier in the week, the Hoover Commission had released a report on "Business Enterprises," which recommended higher Commissary and PX prices, curtailed operations and a new study of these facilities by the Comptroller General.

A detailed report of the Hoover Commission's views on Commissaries and PX's is published on Page 1145.

The President's news conference statements came in response to a question by Mr. William Lawrence of the New York Times.

He asked the Chief Executive "as a military man yourself, and as Commander-in-Chief if you could give us your opinion as to the effect on both morale and the reenlistment rate in the military forces, if all the Commissaries and PX's were to be shut down, as the Hoover Commission now suggests."

The President said "I am sorry you added the last two or three words, because . . ."

Mr. Lawrence said: "I will withdraw them, sir."

"The reason being this, Mr. Lawrence: I have not read that report and they may

AF Tells Plans For 9500 Promotions, Selection Action Starts This Summer

An estimated 53,000 Air Force officers will compete for promotion to about 9500 spaces in captain, major, lieutenant colonel and colonel ranks beginning this summer.

Just announced are plans to consider all first lieutenants with date of rank of 31 December 1953 or earlier; captains, 30 June 1952; majors, 31 Dec. 1952; and lieutenant colonels, also 31 Dec. 1952.

Selections will be centralized for lieutenant colonel promotions, as well as those for colonel.

Earlier this year, the Air Force said that about 12,000 first lieutenants would be eligible for 6000 boosts to captain; 22,020 captains for 2275 advancements to major; 12,500 majors for 930 lieutenant colonel vacancies; and 4950 lieutenant colonel eligibles for an estimated 290 promotions to colonel.

The Air Force reported that about 2050 colonels would compete for 39 promotions to general officer rank.

Special precautions are provided to insure that all eligible officers are considered, including those being reassigned or hospitalized or attending school.

Major commanders were told to re-

NON-STOP GLOBAL JET FLIGHT SOLO?

There's growing talk in the Air Force—though no flight plan likely will be filed momentarily—concerning possibility of an epic achievement—a solo flight around the world non-stop.

It would be a dramatic feather in the cap of either the Strategic Air Command or Tactical Air Command.

Air Force pilots say it can be done. They maintain such a flight is within the capability of present aircraft, employing latest refueling techniques, and is within physical endurance limitations.

Talk about such a flight was raised this week by the 4,840-mile nonstop jump of four Republic F84 Thunderjets from Tokyo to Australia in 12 hours and 2 minutes, in a flight led by Col. Harold M. McClelland, USAF.

Go Signal Set For Green Garb

The Army will begin wearing its new AG-44 Green Uniform on 1 September 1956.

That was the word this week as the Army prepared to receive first shipments of the new cloth.

A report on Army uniform plans is published on page 1151.

AF Austerity Ahead

The Air Force faces austerity in manning its expanding wing structure.

Fewer men will be available to fill an increasing number of jobs. That undoubtedly will mean longer hours at duty stations.

This projected loss, unless current trends are reversed, will mean the Air Force will have fewer men for the 131 wings projected for June 1956 than will be available for 121 wings this June.

Compared with President Eisenhower's budget estimate of January, the Air Force will operate with a deficiency of about 29,000 airmen in the next fiscal year.

This was disclosed to a Senate Appropriations Committee this week by Assistant Air Force Secretary (Financial Management) Lyle S. Garlock.

He said programmed strength for the end of FY '55 just a month away is 970,000, with another 5000 originally scheduled to be added in FY '56.

Mr. Garlock said it is now estimated the "actual strengths" will be 959,000 for this year and, surprisingly, a drop to 946,000 a year later.

The Air Force budget expert said the difference will be made up by employment of a "limited number of civilians."

A PROGRESS REPORT on developments in major forces was made to the Senate Appropriations Committee by Assistant Secretary Roger Lewis, whose responsibility is in the field of logistics. "With the aircraft for the 137 wing Air Force well along in production," he said, "we have diverted our major emphasis to increasing our lead in qualitative superiority."

Here are highlights from his report:

SAC—By the end of 1955, B-47 Staratojets will have replaced completely B-29 and B-50 aircraft. . . . The B-52 Stratofortress "has completed its most essential tests and deliveries to tactical units will begin very soon." The Air Force is placing "particular emphasis" on development of the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile. . . . Also reported was a project for nuclear propulsion in development programs for higher-performance aircraft.

ADC—Mr. Lewis told of "significant achievements during the past year. These included "very satisfactory" test flights for a modified version of the F-102 delta-wing all-weather interceptor, scheduled for quantity production. . . . Falcon Missile tests resulted in orders for "large numbers" during the past year and plans to reorder it "in substantial numbers" during FY '56. . . . "Looking ahead," said Mr. Lewis, "we are requesting funds for the initial financing of the development of a longer range higher performance interceptor built around a more powerful engine."

TAC—The F-100 passed "significant test milestones during 1954 in proving out the high performance of supersonic design. . . . The F-104 day fighter was said to have achieved "excellent" supersonic flight performance and has great promise as a successor to the F-100 in the day fighter role. . . . Mr. Lewis said a fighter-bomber is under development "incorporating substantial increases in performance in terms of speed and altitude," with first flights scheduled within the next year.

Army Asks Approval For 9,000 Family Homes, 24,000 Permanent Barracks

Almost nine thousand "new and badly needed" homes for Army families will be constructed if Congress approves funds requested by Secretary Robert T. Stevens.

He told a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee this week that "adequate housing for Army families" is as important as the recently approved pay increase. "It has a very direct bearing on the maintenance of esprit," Mr. Stevens said.

The housing program was outlined by the Army Secretary during hearings on the military public works bill. He said the housing plan will cost $130 million during fiscal '56 and "it is going to take similar programs over the following five or six years to do the job."

Also included in the Army plan is a request for approximately $45 million for 24,096 permanent barracks in the continental U. S., and an additional $19 million for battalion and regimental buildings, dispensaries, classrooms and other standard facilities.

Mr. Stevens urged that the maximum net floor area be increased for on-base family housing. The allowance requested would authorize 2,100 square feet for general officers' homes, 1,760 square feet for colonels, 1,400 for lieutenant colonels and majors, 1,250 for other commissioned officers and warrant officers and 1,080 for enlisted personnel. At present, the maximum for all ranks is 1,250.

Other big items in the Army section of the public works bill are:

Antiaircraft facilities—More than $160 million, most of which is earmarked for land and construction of additional NIKE guided missile positions.

Ft. Sill—$2 million to acquire 31,000 more acres at Ft. Sill, Okla. Mr. Stevens said the land is "urgently needed" to extend the range at the Artillery Center to accommodate the new, long-range artillery weapons such as the 280-mm gun and the Honest John rocket.

Camp Rucker—$2 million for flight training facilities at the Army Aviation School. Secretary Stevens said "Army light aviation is an indispensable tool of command and is required for the proper performance of an increasing number of organic missions, including fire direction, reconnaissance and evacuation of wounded."

Ft. Leavenworth—$8 million for more adequate academic facilities at the Command and General Staff College and a new station hospital.

Okinawa—$30 million to acquire 52,000 acres of land on Okinawa for the Army, Navy, Air Force and other U. S. agencies. Most of the property already is in the hands of the military forces but Mr. Stevens said "Our payment for this land will help immeasurably to strengthen the economy of Okinawa and the Ryukyus and undercut communist influence in the area. $26 million also is being asked to authorize another increment of permanent construction planned for Okinawa and Alaska.

Navy Seeks O.K. For 3,088 Housing Units, 80% Will Be Built At Overseas Bases

New homes for 3,088 Navy families are being requested by the Navy in the military public works bill which is now before the House and Senate Armed Services Committees.

The family housing units, of which 80 per cent will be constructed overseas, will cost more than $56 million. "While this is a considerable amount," Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas told the two Committees, "we think it is more than justified."

He said the recent military pay raise "will do a great deal" to alleviate the Navy's reenlistment problems, and "An adequate housing program for our military personnel is another morale factor and career incentive which we believe will additionally help in increasing the reenlistment rate and influence more and more good young men to make a military career their life's work."

Additionally, the Navy is asking for approximately $71 million for troop housing. RADM. S. R. Clark, Director of Shore Establishment Development, said permanent barracks are required at Newport, Great Lakes, Coronado, and at various air stations. "Most of the barracks are replacements for deteriorated structures," he said, "but many new ones are required overseas."

Funds requested also will provide "a limited number of playing fields, theaters, gymnasiums and other recreational facilities," Admiral Clark said, "for those stations where opportunities for engaging in sports and recreation are limited."

More than half of the $580 million be-port to USAF Headquarters by 20 June 1955 the number of first lieutenants eligible for promotion under the above criteria.

Similar data will be supplied by 20 July for captains; 20 August for majors; and 20 September for lieutenant colonels eligible for advancement to colonel.

Within 10 days after receiving this information, Washington will advise commands of their promotion quotas.

Then, major commanders will take action to insure that recommended names reach Headquarters by 31 July for boosts to captain, 31 August to major, 30 September to lieutenant colonel and 31 October for colonel.

Marine Corps Plans Housing Program

The Marine Corps is asking Congress for $4.8 million to construct new quarters and recreation facilities for Marine personnel.

The funds are included in a $67 million construction program for the Corps.

Most of the family housing is planned for Camp Pendleton, Calif., where the Marine Corps proposes to construct 72 new homes (nine for senior officers, 35 for junior officers and 28 for enlisted personnel) and to convert a storehouse into three family quarters.

Two new homes will be constructed at the Marine Corps Training Center, Twentynine Palms, Calif., at a cost of $47,300, for one flag officer and one senior officer.

Two new recreational facilities are planned for the Marine Corps Supply Center at Albany, Ga., and a $71,000 "hostess house" will be built at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, to provide a shelter for families visiting recruits.

At the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C., the Corps plans to spend slightly over $1½ million to replace maintenance shops and to provide facilities for the orderly reception, interview and testing of recruits.

Counting the family quarters at Camp Pendleton, the Corps is asking for $6.7 million for that base. The funds will be used to provide new administration buildings and new offices at the main gate. Also it is planned to improve the telephone system and the motor transport repair shop heating system.

Almost $9 million is being requested for the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico. Brig. Gen. Chester R. Allen, USMC, Assistant Quartermaster General, said it is planned to provide additional training facilities and a central camp will be set up in the Guadalcanal training area for the Basic School to train all newly commissioned officers. Areas for artillery firing will be cleared of brush and trees; a new trunk highway will be constructed to U. S. Route 1 and water and medical facilities will be increased.

In addition to the visitors' quarters at San Diego, the Corps plans to spend $49,000 to pave muster areas in the vicinity of messhalls.

Slightly more than $45 million is requested to provide billeting, messing and training facilities "overseas" for one reinforced Marine Division, presumably the 3d Division which is stationed in Japan.

USMC Slates Track Meet

The All-Marine Corps Track and Field Championships will be held at Camp Pendleton, Calif., on 15 and 16 June.

The Corps-wide competition will be followed by the National AAU Track and Field Championships at Boulder City, Colo., on 24 and 25 June and the Inter-service Triathlon Championships to be held at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., on 28 and 29 June.

Nike Has "Tremendous Kill Potential;" "Safe As A Gas Station," Army Reports

The Army, in a twin-pronged and computed offensive, this week aimed super-sonic sights to:

1. Shoot down criticism against the effectiveness of its prized Nike, and

2. Boost acceptance by the public of the guided missile weapon in "backyards" across the nation.

Thus, Brig. Gen. R. R. Hendrix, USA, who commands the vital anti-aircraft defenses of the Nation's Capital, asserted that "Nike is capable of outmaneuvering and destroying any type aircraft presently known and foreseeable for the immediate future."

The general added:

"The Nike site is not dangerous, but as safe as a gas station, as important to security and as much a part of the local community as the police and fire departments."

General Hendrix made these statements on 17 May in a briefing for newsmen who were invited to see and to report on the permanent Nike installation at Lorton, Va., about 16 miles from the Pentagon.

With Defense Department approval, obviously given to help inform the American public about a weapon that would be dotting the landscape around major cities, SAC bases and atomic energy installations, the Army uncloaked hitherto secret activities and facilities of a Nike site, though operational data on the Nike long ago had been made public.

Sharp, smart troops of Battery C of the 71st AAA Missile Battalion, under command of Lt. Col. Sam Davies, USA, with Maj. Felix Millhouse, USA, as executive, and 1st Lt. Michael Davis as battery C.O., showed how Nike works.

Impressively, they demonstrated speed and safety precautions involved in moving 20-foot long missiles and boosters weighing over a ton from reinforced concrete storage facilities 24 feet underground to launching racks for use against enemy aircraft.

General Hendrix, addressing newsmen on behalf of Lt. Gen. S. R. Mickelsen, USA, head of the Army's Antiaircraft Command, pointed out that by use of the underground areas, the Army has been able to reduce from about 150 to 50 acres the land needed for a Nike site.

In a program that is to cost upwards of $1 billion and with land and construction for each Nike installation estimated at about $1 million, the real estate saving will be significant, General Hendrix related.

Joining General Hendrix for the Nike site unveiling, Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, USA, Chief of Information, declared that Nike "heralds a whole new era of weapons development and sets the pace for our concepts of future air defense of the nation."

"I cannot overemphasize the fact," said General Mudgett, "that Nike is a reliable weapon available to us now in quantity to help defend our cities and strategic areas against a potential holocaust of modern war."

The assertions by Generals Mudgett and Hendrix regarding the "tremendous kill potential" of Nike came against a background of allegations that Nike would not be effective against modern jet aircraft—or that its range would result in kills directly over target areas.

To this point, General Hendrix said: "The range and altitude of Nike gives us the capability to destroy enemy aircraft before they reach a distance from one of our cities from which they could launch their bomb loads."

General Hendrix added succinctly: "The Department of the Army will never have to apologize for Nike."

Conceding that the Army has encountered public relations difficulties at the community level in the Nike program, General Hendrix expressed the hope that the public, once made aware of the importance of Nike to national security, would be more inclined to cooperate in the expanding anti-aircraft defense program.

"The Army is very much aware of the impact on communities of installing this new weapon in their back yards," said General Hendrix. "In acquiring these lands and later on, after your soldiers occupy these sites, we are most anxious to integrate ourselves in the community's daily life with the minimum inconvenience to the people of that area."

"In short," declared General Hendrix, "we want to be good neighbors and we hope the community will think of us in that light."

JOURNAL JOTS:

A Nike assignment means a three-year tour at present. With each battery authorized 6 officers, 2 warrant officers and 101 enlisted men and a minimum of 2 batteries required for each site protected, that's going to run into a considerable number of men. . . . The Army hasn't disclosed any official figures, but it's estimated current price of a Nike missile is about $20,000, about a third of what first production models cost.

The Lorton demonstration provided some encouragement to newsmen who have complained recently about the crackdown on release of weapons information by the Defense Department. Though all questions about the improved Nike B were turned aside, the Nike I site was put "completely on the record," including pictures, except for the inside of the radar vans.

Growing problem for the Army is the test firing training required to keep Nike crews at top effectiveness. Batteries from all over the Nation must travel once a year to range sites in the Ft. Bliss-White Sands area. It's obvious there will be no intentional on-the-job firings.

Army Engineers are working on the problem of how to make Nike sites conform to particular environs. . . . This will require deviations from a single set of construction plans for battery buildings.

Emphasizing safety precautions taken with Nike, the Army has disclosed development of a booster that will disintegrate in the air. . . . There's been concern that the booster might fall on a populated area.

Brig. Gen. Hendrix

THIRD ARMY RIFLE AND PISTOL CHAMPIONS congratulate each other after winning first-place honors in the Third Army Rifle and Pistol Championships at Fort Benning. Major Frank D. Graham, left, of Woburn, Mass., pistol champion, and M/Sgt. Francis D. Conway, of Worcester, Mass., rifle king, display the trophies they won competing against more than 550 of the Army's best marksmen in the week-long matches. Ten Army posts and six military districts were represented. They will lead the Third Army team into the All-Army Championships 12-18 June at Ft. Benning.

Col. Fink On Wall St.

Tobey & Kirk, members of the New York Stock Exchange, announce that Sol Paul Fink has been admitted to the firm as a general partner. This marks his re-entry into Wall Street after three years service with the Army in Europe on special assignment with the rank of Colonel.

BOARD MEETS TO PICK ARMY COLS.

A selection board met this week at the Pentagon to consider more than 1,100 lieutenant colonels for promotion to temporary colonel.

Names of eligibles are published in Circular 624-41.

Army list officers must have 120 months of active service in grade by 30 June 1955. The minimum is 74 months for Chaplains. There will be no Medical Service selections.

Selections will be made on a "best qualified" basis, with the Army planning to release a recommended list when the selection board adjourns.

Pentagon Disclosure On Red Airpower Prompts Speculation On 137-Wing Goal

At a few minutes after noon on Friday, 13 May, after careful coordination at the "highest level" of Government, which means the White House, the Defense Department suddenly touched off new speculation about Soviet airpower.

This led to discussion this week by Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) and President Eisenhower of the relative strength of the U. S. Air Force and promise of a new Senate investigation.

The discussion will not end quickly, for aside from the fact that the Senate yet must vote on the fiscal '56 military budget, top Administration officials already are at work on framing military spending plans for fiscal '57.

Declining to say why it was releasing the statement or why it chose the particular date, 13 May, the Defense Department handed newsmen this report:

"The Soviets have recently elected to expose some new aircraft developments in air parade formation over Moscow. These observations establish a new basis for our estimate of Soviet production of the heavy jet bomber and of the medium bomber."

"There has also been an appearance of a turbo-prop bomber, and a new all-weather fighter has appeared, as expected. This knowledge is evidence of the modern technology of the Soviet aircraft industry and the advances which are being made by them."

That Soviet air strength has been increasing at a significant pace is no new disclosure to the American people. Top Air Force officials have been warning of this development for some time.

In this connection, THE JOURNAL last week forecast that there would be new emphasis placed on the improving quality of Soviet airpower, particularly as regards the Type 37 and Type 39 bombers, comparable respectively to the B-52 and

B-47 bombers of the U. S. Air Force, and the new MiG 17 fighter.

"Suggestions may be made," THE JOURNAL said, "that a new look is needed at the 137 wing strength," projected for the U. S. Air Force.

Whatever future revisions might be required in Air Force plans, Pentagon leaders were for the present standing pat on the planned buildup by 30 June 1957 to 137 wings.

There was some speculation that the report on Red air developments might be related to an effort by the U. S. Government to put into perspective Soviet proposals for disarmament.

Some suggested also that the Defense Department could be attempting to head off possible criticism that it was not keeping the American public advised of Russian progress.

In any event, such criticism came this week—in no uncertain terms—from Senator Symington, former Secretary of the Air Force.

If the Pentagon had thought by issuing a statement on 13 May to temper criticism, that hope went by the boards as he used the Defense Department report to emphasize his charges in a speech to the Senate four days later.

Senator Symington said he was "shocked and astonished" that the Reds were able to fly formation flights of bombers, as reported by the Pentagon.

"It is now clear," Mr. Symington asserted, "that the United States, along with the rest of the free world, may have lost control of the air, except for the possibility that we still have advantages in base location and training."

"But is now also clear," he continued, "that in quality as well as quantity of (Please turn to Page 1151)"

THIRD STAR IS PINNED—Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbot pins a third star on Lt. Gen. Clarence S. Irvine, USAF, who moved up from Deputy Commander, Air Materiel Command, to be Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel. He replaced Lt. Gen. Bryant L. Boatner, USAF, who is on convalescent leave. Standing still here, General Irvine in 1946 won fame as the pilot of the far-ranging B-29 "Pacusan Dreamboat."

Navy Considers 850 Officers For Retention On Flying Status; Marine Corps Keeps Mum

A number of Naval aviators soon may be removed from flying status.

The first annual Flight Status Selection Board met on 16 May and is reviewing the records of about 850 Navy flyers. Under consideration are the following categories of officers.

1. Aviators whose age and grade are not compatible; including lieutenants over age 40; lt. commanders over 45; and commanders over 50.

2. Aviators who have been recommended for reclassification by Naval Aviator Disposition Boards or Naval Aviation Evaluation Boards; and

3. Aviators who reach their 14th, 21st and 28th year of active commissioned service.

There are 665 Navy flyers who have reached their 14th year of commissioned service, 88 with 21 years service and 54 with 28 years in commissioned grade. At the same time, the board is considering the reclassification of four lieutenants over 40, 11 lt. commanders over 45 and 12 commanders over 50.

After the board concludes its deliberations, a letter of intent will be sent to each officer whose status is to be changed. Before orders are issued, officers will be given an opportunity to submit written appeals. If an officer feels he will be better able to present his case in person, he may make a presentation to the Chief of Naval Personnel at his own expense. All final decisions will rest with the CNO.

The Navy said that aviators who are removed from flying status will be shifted to posts commensurate with their rank, qualifications and experience.

Marine Corps Silent

The Marine Corps, which was to set up a similar board to review the records of all Marine Aviators with over 14 years of service, declined to make available information concerning the retention of flyers. All efforts to obtain data similar to that released by the Navy were unavailable.

Marine Corps Headquarters would not say even if a Flight Selection Board had been convened.

Revive Trophy Match After 15 Years

The Infantry Trophy Match, last-fired in the 1940 National Matches has been revived and revised and will be included in the National Trophy Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, this year.

The "Infantry Match," first held in 1922 was designed to provide a squad competition in the National Matches involving fire and movement, utilizing weapons that were used by the Infantry squads of that time.

Participation by Service, National Guard, and Reserve teams was mandatory. Entry of civilian and other teams approved by the Executive Officer was optional. Since the match was initiated in 1922, changes in ranges, safety requirements and equipment have required a revision of this match.

The current match, designed to emphasize accuracy and distribution of fire on a group of targets, may be entered by all teams authorized entry in the National Trophy Matches.

Several major changes have been made in the match conditions. The M-1 rifle will be fired by all team members. Teams will consist of 6 firing members armed with the M-1 rifle and a nonfiring coach and captain. Targets will be "E" and "F" silhouettes rather than the "D" targets formerly used. Targets at 300, 400, and 600 yards will be the "E" type silhouette targets, while the targets for 200 yards will be the "F" type.

Each team will fire at 8 targets, exposed for 60 seconds, at each range. Forty rounds of ammunition will be furnished each team member at each range. Firing at 200 yards will be in the offhand position, 600 yards prone, 300 and 400 yards sitting or kneeling.

Lt. Col. Anne Sweeney Top Sixth Army WAC

Lt. Col. Anne E. Sweeney, WAC, has assumed duties of Sixth Army WAC Staff Advisor at the Presidio of San Francisco. She succeeds Lt. Col. Elizabeth C. Smith, USA, who departed to take a staff position with the Department of Defense.

As WAC Staff Advisor, Colonel Sweeney has administrative responsibility for the 86 WAC officers and 759 enlisted women assigned throughout the eight states of the Sixth Army command.

Born at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., Colonel Sweeney grew up in a family with whom military service is a tradition. She is the daughter of Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, USA-Ret., and the late Mrs. Sweeney, who established their home in San Francisco upon the general's retirement in 1940 after 42 years spent in Army duty.

Colonel Sweeney has one brother, Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, jr., USAF, presently with the Fifteenth Air Force at March Field, Calif., and one sister, Mrs. Richard B. Gayle of San Francisco, whose husband is a retired Army colonel. The military line bids fair to carry on to the third generation as her nephew, Walter C. Sweeney, III, awaits word this spring of his applications for appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., or the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Lt. Col. Manes Is JAG For 1st Armored Div.

The First Armored Division at Ft. Hood, Tex., has a new Judge Advocate General. He is Lt. Col. Donald L. Manes, USA, who replaces Col. Wilmot T. Baughn, USA, who will take over duties as Judge Advocate General at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

Prior to his assignment with the Division, Colonel Manes was chief of the military affairs section at Ft. Sam Houston. In this connection, he was appointed law officer for the Korean Prisoner of War trials held in the Fourth Army area.

Amazing New IT&T development will revolutionize aircraft navigation

Gives position of aircraft instantly, automatically, and with accuracy never before attained.

TACAN (tactical air navigation) provides both distance and bearing information in a single "package" about the size of an ordinary shoe kit. This has never been done before!

By integration of functions, and miniaturization into one small unit, TACAN represents a giant stride in aircraft navigation equipment. Add extreme accuracy, and adaptability to varying installation conditions such as on shipboard or for mobile land equipment, and you know why TACAN is described by military and civil aviation officials as one of the most significant advances in many years.

TACAN is the result of a series of development programs sponsored by the U.S. Navy and the U.S. Air Force at Federal Telecommunication Laboratories, a division of IT&T. It is another of the outstanding IT&T research and engineering "firsts," and major contributions to safer, more dependable flying.

A light, simple, comprehensive TACAN airborne unit can be made available for private flying.

Navy Establishes Plan To Assist Next Of Kin

A "Casualty Assistance Calls Program" is being set up by the Navy to give personalized assistance to the next of kin of deceased active duty personnel.

Naval District and River Commandants have been instructed to assign a commissioned officer on active duty to act as the Commandant's official representative to provide survivors with whatever assistance the Naval service can offer.

The assigned officer will counsel and advise bereaved families on funeral arrangements, offer financial assistance where necessary and help with any other emergency. The Casualty Assistance Calls Officer also will inform next of kin of the rights, benefits and privileges to which they are entitled.

In announcing the program, the Navy said "experience indicates that the next of kin of naval personnel who die on active duty are seldom in a position to cope properly with the problems created by the sudden demise of the service member and this program is established to alleviate these difficulties."

The plan has been tried on an experimental basis in the Fifth Naval District, with Headquarters in Norfolk, Va., and was met with enthusiasm and acclaim, the Navy reports.

The Navy directed that the assigned officer will be one in close proximity to the next of kin so that travel costs will be kept at a minimum. A comprehensive manual, containing a resume of current information, has been prepared as a guide for Casualty Assistance Calls Officers.

Early Discharge Rules Changed To Avoid Abuse

The Navy has clamped down on enlisted men who are considered to be abusing provisions of the reenlistment bonus law.

In some cases, Assistant Navy Secretary Albert Pratt (Personnel and Reserve Forces) notes, early discharges and reenlistments "would appear to have been effected for the sole purpose of receiving payment of reenlistment bonus and other monetary benefits and are not considered to be within the spirit and intent of Bureau of Personnel Instruction 1133.4."

The Instruction authorizes commanding officers to discharge personnel up to a year in advance of expiration of a man's normal tour of duty if he immediately signs for an additional tour.

The Bureau of Personnel launched the early discharge program in an effort to spur reenlistments by making it possible for a man to get an early reenlistment bonus. Before promulgation of the Instruction, commanding officers could effect the early discharge of EM, for the purpose of reenlistment, only three months prior to the end of their normal tours of duty.

In a communication to all Navy commands, Secretary Pratt stated that there have been instances where personnel have been discharged early and reenlisted under the terms of the Instruction after having received information that they were selected for service in midshipmen, warrant or commissioned rank. The early discharges were effected, the Secretary said, even though the men had sufficient service remaining in current enlistments to accept appointments and retain continuity of service.

He directed all commanding officers to insure that no man in such a category be granted early discharge and reenlistment under the terms of the Navy Instruction.

Naval Security Group Seeks Junior Officers

The Navy is seeking applications from junior male and female officers for duty in the Naval Security Group.

Eligible to apply for the special assignments are:

1. Regular Line lieutenants and lieutenants (jg), including temporary officers and officers with aviation designators. Male jg's generally will not be assigned before completion of four years' sea duty.

2. Regular restricted Line officers, primarily LDO's in the fields of administration and electronics.

3. Reserve Line officers in the rank of ensign through lieutenant may apply if they agree in their applications to remain on active duty for 30 months. Ensigns are required to have completed one year of duty in ship assignments before making application.

Volunteers, the Navy said, should have demonstrated their ability and aptitude in at least one of the following fields: communications, electrical engineering, electronics, intelligence, languages, mathematics, or physics.

Officers who are ordered to duty with the Naval Security Group will be required to serve a normal tour of duty in the area to which they are assigned. Billets are open in the continental U. S. as well as overseas. The Navy states that preferences for duty locations will be granted whenever possible.

Requests for duty normally should be submitted six months before the end of an applicant's current tour of duty and should be sent through official channels to the CNO (Attn: Pers-B1119).

Col. Boyce To Europe

Col. Bingham Boyce, MC, USA, in command of the Dispensary in the Fifth Army headquarters, Chicago, Ill., the past five years, has been notified of his assignment to new duties in Europe. He will proceed in June to Headquarters, USAR-EUR.

Lt. Col. Norman Lepper, MC, USA, on the staff of the Murphy Army Hospital, Waltham, Mass., has been designated his successor.

Colonel and Mrs. Boyce maintain their permanent residence in Mount Lebanon, Pennsylvania, his home town. Their daughter, Nancy, 21, is attending the Pennsylvania College for Women in Pittsburgh.

Continental's continuing interest in its product, after the sale, makes a big reduction in the cost of plane ownership and use. Continental aircraft engines are not only built to absorb their full share of punishment, but backed with the kind of service that keeps them running year after year. When major overhaul time rolls round, the owner can replace his engine with a factory-remanufactured power plant—back to zero hours, and with factory new engine guarantee—at very low fixed cost and with virtually no dead time. Continental's Factory Remanufacturing Plan is one more in a long list of reasons underlying pilot preference for planes with Continental power.

Ships of the Fleet

USS Drevale—has just completed her last cruise before going in "mothballs." The fleet type submarine, commanded by LCdr. Albert R. Trotter, USN, was to be refitted, decommissioned and transferred to the New London Group of the Atlantic Reserve about 20 May. After her decommissioning, Commander Trotter will report to the submarine USS Angler, attached to Squadron 10, where he will relieve LCdr. A. W. Newlon, USN, as commanding officer. The remainder of the Drevale's crew will be ordered to other units of the Submarine Force based at New London.

USS Sarda—celebrated her 5000th dive with a cake-cutting ceremony attended by officers, men and passengers who participated in the training operation. Capt. Karl R. Wheland, USN, Commander Submarine Squadron 2, acted as conning officer, giving the order for a special diving crew to take her down for the 5000th time. Acting diving officer was Chief Torpedoman Andrew P. Dawson, USN, who has been aboard the Sarda since her commissioning in April 1946. The fleet type sub is assigned to the Submarine Base New London as a "school boat" in which her crew trains students in the operation of submarines. She is making 10 to 15 dives per day.

Army Navy Air Force Journal 1123

Submarine Division 51—Cdr. Roy G. Anderson, USN, succeeded Cdr. Jim D. Miller, USN, as the Division's Commanding Officer, during recent ceremonies held aboard the flagship USS Carbonero in Pearl Harbor. Commander Miller has been ordered to duty on the Staff of Commander, First Fleet, based at San Diego.

Opposed heavy-duty steel rollers cold-flow tough materials onto a spinning mandrel

technique

THE FIRST HYDROSPIN machine in the United States is now in use at Solar. Built for the company by Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., this remarkable new production tool easily squeezes cold alloy steels into hard-to-form shapes. Even better news is this: the Hydrosin can cut production costs in half on many aircraft and industrial components!

Semi-automatic in operation, the Hydrosin takes a blank metal disc and applies the pressure of heavy-duty rollers. As the rollers advance, the material is smoothly forced onto a rotating mandrel. Difficult contours in cones and cylinders are easily obtained with the Hydrosin. Parts containing elements of varying thickness, such as walls, flanges and support areas, can be made in a single operation. Both material and labor costs are sharply reduced by this advanced metal-working technique.

This new machine typifies a basic Solar principle—use of the best and latest processes and equipment to turn out top quality metal products. And every Solar customer receives still another "plus"—the integrity factor inherent in all of Solar's work. Why not find out more, today, about the Solar skills that can help your business?

Graduates all wear a distinctive blue loop—which has been called "a hallmark of professional achievement" by General Curtis E. LeMay—on their left epaulet.

Eight graduates were signalled out for top honors at Saturday's exercises. General officers at each of the ceremonies presented these eight with special awards.

At the second Air Force Academy, Barksdale AFB, La., Brig. Gen. Maurice A. Preston, 4th Air Division commander, made the graduation address and presented awards to: honor graduate and academic award winner M/Sgt. Douglas Wilkinson, and commandant award winner M/Sgt. William R. Bingham, both of Barksdale.

The ceremony, attended by Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, USAF, Commander of the Fifteenth Air Force; Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Broadhurst, USAF, Commander of Fairchild's 57th Air Division, and Brig. Gen. James V. Edmundson, USAF, Commander of the Davis-Monthan's 36th Air Division, included a fly-over salute by a squadron of F-86 fighters.

A framed certificate authorized and signed by Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott was presented to Col. Jack J. Catton, USAF, Commander of the 92d. Brig. Gen. James V. Edmundson, USAF, Commander of the 92d at the time of "Big Stick," attached the Outstanding Unit Citation to the wing's colors.

Col. Blackstone Is JAG At 10th AF Hdqs.

New Tenth Air Force staff judge advocate at Selfridge AFB, Mich., is Col. John E. Blackstone, USAF, former chief of the Air Command and Staff School's JAG division at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

He replaces Col. William E. Doolan, jr., USAF, assigned to the Pentagon.

At Maxwell, Colonel Blackstone was commended for spare time work on a pet project of his own—sparking the research and writing of a series of urgently needed and never before available reference pamphlets, handbooks and manuals for daily use of legal and administrative officers in the field.

With Colonel Blackstone at Selfridge are his wife, Emelyn, and their son, Robert A., 4.

Basic Military Doctrines and Executive Policy Now In Accord, Says USAF Writer

("U. S. Military Doctrine," a study and appraisal, by Brig. Gen. Dale O. Smith, USAF. Foreword by General Carl Spaatz, USAF-Ret. 256 pages. Published by Little, Brown & Co. Price $3.50.)

In this scholarly study, General Smith analyzes military doctrine in the United States from the Revolution up to today. He relates General Washington's problems in the Revolutionary war and our difficulties following the adoption of the Constitution. The effects of the various classical doctrines from Europe upon our history are also shown. The effect of the new airpower upon military doctrine is traced through the late General "Billy" Mitchell, Hugh Trenchard and the Italian, Giulio Douhet.

Brig. Gen. Smith

Through the published expressions of President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles (whose "massive retaliation" speech of January 1954, is heavily relied upon as the basis of our policy), and of the National Security Council, General Smith finds that:

"The four military doctrines of professionalism, unity of command, celerity with the counteroffense, and technical application, are, for the first time in American history, in accord with the executive policy of government."

General Smith, who is now on duty in Washington with the Operations Coordinating Board, was previously Director of Education in the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Ala. He is a scholar of considerable accomplishment and it shows in this well written and most interesting book with its wealth of historical background and analysis.

The author, however, emphasizes that while, as a career officer and student of the profession of arms he has been intimately concerned with military doctrine and its relationship to national policy, what is contained in the book represents purely his personal views.

The volume is doubtless the most comprehensive study of U. S. military doctrine since Upton's "Military Policy of the United States." In fact, General Smith pays high tribute to the work of Bvt. Maj. Gen. Emory Upton, USA, whose book exerted such a great influence over so long a period.

General Smith's book represents an airpower view. It will find disagreement in the other services and, perhaps, some within the proponents of airpower. But few will disagree with the comprehensiveness of his treatment.

If it evokes increased interest in military doctrine and increased study of the subject it will perform a valuable function, indeed. As General Spaatz writes in the foreword: "If General Smith's book were read by every student, perhaps the problems confronting us would stand out in greater clarity and suggest solutions that would lead to America's salvation."

* Carrier-on-Board-Delivery

Now, payloads of up to 16,000 pounds of vital supplies can be delivered to our fleets—anywhere at sea!

Fairchild's M-216 "Flying Lighter" has load-carrying capacity and range far exceeding any aircraft now used for carrier-on-board-delivery—makes possible delivery of critical spare parts, electronic and communications equipment, tools and repair materials, engines, mail, cargo, munitions or food anywhere at sea, eliminating many costly and time-consuming surface re-supply operations.

Adapted from famous Fairchild C-123B Assault Transport, the new "Flying Lighter" gives wings to current problems of fleet supply—gives new mobility and independence, more flexible logistic support to fleet operations.

This is how Fairchild meets the needs of our Armed Forces—supplying sound, dependable aircraft on demand for specialized, vital and difficult jobs.

New Army Chief of Staff. While regretting the retirement of General Matthew B. Ridgway, the Army and the Nation will heartily approve the selection of General Maxwell D. Taylor as Chief of Staff of the Army.

General Taylor brings to the Army's highest post a background of experience and an array of talents that will stand him in good stead in the difficult task before him. Young for a Chief of Staff—he is only 53—he has a wide career in combat. In the war in Europe, he was in action as artillery commander of the 82d Airborne Division and later as Division Commander of the 101st Airborne. Subsequently, he commanded the Eighth Army in Korea during some of the heaviest fighting of that war. Now, he is Commander-in-Chief of the U. S. and United Nations Forces in the Far East.

A scholar of considerable accomplishment, General Taylor followed up his education at the U. S. Military Academy by further schooling at the Engineer School, the Field Artillery School, the Command and General Staff School, and the Army War College. He is master of many languages, having been instructor in French and Spanish at West Point. He has studied both Japanese and Chinese. His appointment as Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy was a recognition not only of his educational attainments but also of his high qualities of leadership and administrative abilities.

General Taylor's broad knowledge of nations and peoples throughout the world has been fortified by his service in Japan as a language student from 1935 to 1939 followed by a tour of duty as Assistant Military Attache to China. In 1949 he was Chief of Staff to the U. S. Forces in Europe, subsequently becoming Commander of the American Military Government and Army Forces in Berlin. Now this has been capped by his duty in command of all U. S. and United Nations forces in the Far East.

With General Ridgway go the best wishes and deepest regards of the Army he served so loyally. As a true soldier, he accepted the decision of his civilian superiors in cutting back the strength of the ground forces, but General Ridgway nevertheless did not hide from Congress and the public his professional opinion that the reduction is not wise and will hamper the Army in the carrying out of its world-wide commitments.

General Alfred M. Gruenther, who has been widely mentioned as Chief of Staff, will remain as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe where he has won the confidence and support of all the Nations allied with us in the defense of the free world. In continuing in this high post, he will be able to assist in the development and training of the 12 German divisions for which he fought so hard and to integrate them into the defense forces he has built.

The availability of these and many other officers of such high caliber is a true tribute to the system of education and training by which our little Army prepared itself in the 20's and 30's for WWII and the global responsibilities the Nation faces today.

Boosting Costs. Considering that its Task Force was heavily weighted with representatives of those businesses who in the past have been opposed to Commissaries and Post Exchanges, this week's report of the Hoover Commission on those activities was rather mild.

In fact, the report does not go all out in opposition to PX's and Commissaries—it merely wants Service personnel to pay more for what they buy. It recommends that these Service operations be confined to localities where adequate or reasonably convenient services are not available (it does not include the additional Congressional stipula-

In addition, it suggests that the Commissaries and Post Exchanges might be "contracted out" to concessionaires. All of these recommendations, of course, would have the effect of increasing the price burden on Service personnel and their families.

The Commission, too, wants another thorough survey made. We suggest that they go back to the 1953 report of the Hess Subcommittee in the House. That study was made as the result of charges filed by the American Retail Federation

READERS' VIEWS

Start Working and Stop Complaining

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Hear now! Shed a tear or two for Lt Col, RA (in your 30 April issue) and his numerous predecessors who use your Editorial page to thump their chests, bare their souls, and beseechingly present outstanding records while loudly proclaiming that the US Army "ain't done right by our Nell."

What has become of the Officer that entered and remained in the military service for the pure satisfaction of soldiering? He used to be in abundance, even at the princely rate of $125.00 per month. I don't recall all the fuss and bother because the PX didn't stock outboard motors, or every field grade officer didn't have a five bedroom house on the Post. Individual Officers seldom prepared weighty tomes criticizing the selection, promotion and elimination policies of the Army.

I still subscribe to the opinion, which appears to be in ill-repute these days, that an Officer who continually performs his duties efficiently, conscientiously, and to the best of his ability will eventually be recognized. It shouldn't take a second Clausewitz to realize that we all can't be Major Generals, or even Colonels. Unfortunately the order of the day seems to be to criticize and find fault. Everywhere one hears and reads of Officers complaining of and sharp-shooting at their superiors and the Army in general. Too many appear to be concerned only with their own personal problem, advancement, and privileges.

Perhaps if more of us devoted the time and effort expended in complaining how we are mistreated, overlooked, and unappreciated by the Army to performing our duties more effectively, many of our problems would disappear. My humble reaction to the plight of Lt Col, RA and his forerunners is; your story is unique, see the Chaplain if you wish, put in for retirement, take that civilian job, but get the hell out of my office, I've got work to do.

LT. COLONEL, INFANTRY
THOMAS W. MELLEW

What Happened to USAF Lt. Cols. of '49?

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Reference is made to the list of temporary promotions to colonel in the Air Force, as carried in the 19 March issue of your paper.

Of the 276 promoted to colonel, 208 of these had date of rank in 1950 and 1951. It really did my heart good to see the 68 make it, those with date of rank from 1944 thru 1948, but what in the world happened to those poor unfortunate characters who earned their promotion to Lt col in 1949. Do we carry some strange stigma for having gained our reward in the good year of 1949?

Assuming that all of the 208 are superior officers in every respect, surely there must have been one or more officers of 1949 rank equal to some of the chosen ones of 1950 and 1951 rank.

It's a little discouraging when almost fourteen years of active duty with a superior record are so little considered by those responsible for (some of whose members are now members of the Hoover Task Force). The Federation even went to the extent of hiring private investigators to get the goods on the PX's. However, the investigating subcommittee (which has never been accused of being partial to the Services) came up with a report giving the PX's a clean bill of health and the American Retail Federation a rap on the knuckles. They found the exchanges competently managed and said that the agreements made with the Committee in 1949 were being carried out "implicitly." They termed the exchanges "an indispensable morale factor."

Also of interest to the Hoover Commission might be the results of an independent survey made by the Bureau of Social Science Research which reveals that enlisted men of the Army and Air Force rank the exchange privilege as "number one" among the traditional benefits as a factor in their decision to remain in the military service.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—One of the best kept secrets of the war was revealed this week by announcement that on 4 June 1944, a U. S. Navy escort carrier task group reverted to the tactics of the early Continental Navy and hunted down, attacked, boarded, and captured the Nazi submarine U-505, 150 miles west of Cape Blanco in French West Africa.

50 Years Ago—It is probable that two provisional regiments of Field Artillery will be organized for the purpose of testing the idea of the President that a regimental organization for the Field Artillery would greatly enhance the efficiency of that arm of the Service. This important matter, as we have previously stated, was brought up for consideration before the General Staff by the President, who has been greatly impressed by the efficient work done by the Japanese field artillery in the Far Eastern war.

90 Years Ago—General E. Kirby Smith still flourishes west of the Mississippi. It is probable, however, on several accounts, that his empire will be short. He has very few troops, and little material of war. Also our entire forces can now be concentrated against the Trans-Mississippi Department, and will overwhelm opposition.

our promotions. Are we to be penalized for long faithful service and devotion to duty, just because we made lieutenant colonel in 1949? There may be an awfully simple answer to my questions, and if so, I would greatly appreciate knowing what it is.

LT. COL. USAF.

Army Enlisted Promotions

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

The clear though brief outline you gave in your 30 April issue of enlisted promotion possibilities in the Regular Army was quite enlightening to say the least. It can readily be imagined how encouraging this information will be to recruiting personnel and others who are no doubt seriously attempting to interest possible candidates or applicants in making Army service a "career." Who could possibly be interested in an Army career after digesting information of that nature? On the one hand enlisted men are handed a raise, while on another they are told in no uncertain terms their chances of being promoted are nil or even less.

It does seem like the enlisted grade structure got itself all balled up in 1950 when the Korean situation popped off, and since then—instead of the situation clarifying itself, it has become more muddled and confused than ever with very little if any attention given to attempting to straighten the matter out. One then comes to the conclusion therefore that nobody is interested or cares, after all only mere enlisted men are affected.

A VICTIM

Army ZI Commanders Face Formidable Tasks, Second Army Visit Emphasizes

THE six commanders of the numbered armies in the United States—already beset with super-business defense responsibilities from railroad track maintenance to atomic readiness—are headed for new tasks involving scores of thousands of additional citizens.

Upon the shoulders of these Army Commanders, under General John E. Dahlquist, USA, head of the Continental Army Command, will fall the vital job of carrying out an ambitious program to strengthen the Reserve Forces. Congress willing, this will be achieved under terms of the pending National Reserve Plan; otherwise, alternative methods will be employed.

To get an insight into the broad-gauged duties of a ZI Commander, THE JOURNAL last week visited Second Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md., to discuss there with Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, USA, the extent and variety of his command, and the problems it faces.

Lt. Gen. Parks

"First and foremost," said General Parks, "it is our intention to give the Reserve Forces, both the National Guard and Reserve, every possible help in their job of backstopping the Active Services."

He pointed out, as the Second Army staff worked on final preparations for Summer camp training, that his seven-state command is responsible for over 300,000 in the Reserve Forces.

In an area roughly the size of France and covering the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware, General Parks is charged with direction and assistance to about 45,000 National Guardsmen and 280,000 Reservists, of whom 35,000 are in units. There are 29,000 ROTC students, in 69 units.

The Administration, worried over the fact that so few of available thousands of Reservists with obligations for service, are participating in units proposes in the National Reserve Plan that teeth be placed in present legislation. It appears that Congress may go along with this request.

If so, General Parks and his fellow Army Commanders will be required, and are prepared, to accelerate greatly present support activities for the Reserve Forces.

Stepped up participation in the Active Reserve will require a considerable

Gen. Pierce Serves Again With Gen. Parks

Maj. Gen. James R. Pierce, USA, Seventh Army Chief of Staff in Germany, is scheduled to arrive at Ft. Meade this month to become Deputy Commanding General, Second Army.

At Meade, General Pierce, USMA '22, who will be 56 in August, will serve again with Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, USA, Army Commander. After WWII, when General Parks was Military Governor of Berlin, General Pierce was his G-3. Late in 1945 when the Second Army Chief was made Chief of the Public Information Division at the Pentagon, General Pierce was his Deputy.

In Germany, General Pierce will be replaced by Brig. Gen. William W. Dick, jr., USA, who has been Seventh Army Artillery Officer. A 1927 USMA graduate, General Dick is 45 and was promoted to his present rank in November 1952. He joined the Seventh Army in April 1954 after service as artillery commander of the 31st Infantry Division at Camp Atterbury, Ind. Earlier, he was on duty with G-1 at the Department of the Army.

increase, for example, in the number of USAR schools in Army areas. Second Army now operates 21 major USAR schools, requiring a staff and faculty of almost 1,000 officers and enlisted men.

Within General Parks' command, there are 3 National Guard divisions, 5 Regimental Combat Teams and 260 Guard units of various sizes. Four Reserve divisions are on the rolls.

In addition to the Reserve problem, Army Commanders are faced with other new situations resulting from changed defense requirements. For example, they are doing everything possible to aid isolated units of Lt. Gen. S. R. Mickelsen's Antiaircraft Command, such as remote Nike guided missile installations.

"While we don't exercise tactical control over these units," says General Parks, "we realize they have a tough job and we want to do everything we can to see that their needs are met." The general mentioned particularly the special recreation and morale problems for men serving long hours of duty at isolated facilities.

Another activity requiring increasing attention of Army Commanders is the Industrial Security Program, essential for safeguarding vital production installations.

General Parks has security cognizance over 1,835 industrial facilities. In his command, which represents roughly one-fifth of the entire U. S. population, are included about one-fourth of all industries—76 per cent of coal production.

On the military side of the ledger, General Parks has control of 22 Class I installations, including mammoth Ft. Knox, Ky., home of the 3d Armored Division and the newly activated Armored Replacement Training Center, and helps support 48 Class II installations.

With an overhead of about 26,000

The Army Commanders

Here are the six Army Commanders, with their headquarters and areas of command.

First Army—Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, USA, Governors Island, N. Y., New England, N. Y. and New Jersey.

Second Army—Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, USA, Ft. Meade, Md., Pa., Ohio, Ky., Va., W. Va., Md. and Del.

Third Army—Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling, USA, Ft. McPherson, Ga., Tennessee, Carolinas, Georgia, Ala., Miss., Fla.

Fourth Army—Lt. Gen. I. D. White, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.; Texas, N. M., Okla., Ark., La.

Fifth Army—Lt. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, Chicago, Ill.; Dakotas, Minn., Wisc., Ill., Ind., Wyo., Nebr., Colo., Kans., Mo., Ia.

Sixth Army—Lt. Gen. Willard G. Wyman, Presidio of San Francisco; Wash., Mont., Oreg., Idaho, Calif., Nev., Utah, Ariz.

military and 20,500 civilian personnel, Second Army is strictly "big business."

It operates 563 miles of rail trackage, considerably longer than the 390 of the Long Island Railroad. Its 2,257 miles of road are about the same as the road system of Rhode Island.

Second Army warehouses stock 731,750 items. Montgomery Ward and Co. carries a stock list of about 90,000 items. The 56,572,869 square feet of warehouse space in Second Army facilities would equal the area of a 40-foot dual-lane highway from Washington past New York City.

A one-time tank company commander at Meade, General Parks now is responsible for $15,290,000 worth of vehicles. His 95 aircraft and 37 helicopters are valued at over $4,000,000.

The story of an Army Commander's job is one which must be told in terms of scores of thousands of men and scores of millions of dollars. That story won't change.

Though over-all Army strength is to be cut and though some responsibilities of the ZI Commanders will be turned over to the Technical Services, the future holds certainty of expansive tasks for the ZI Army Headquarters.

"The requirement for improving our Reserve Forces, the need for giving our Active Forces the best training possible and the essential job of protecting our industrial facilities will insure busy times for Army Commanders," General Parks relates.

Army Tells Ordnance Ammunition Awards

Award of an Ordnance contract to the National Presto Industries of Eau Claire, Wisc., to produce eight-inch howitzer shells, has been approved.

National Presto submitted the lowest of 45 bids received in national competition.

The production contract totals $2,714,404.80 for an undisclosed quantity of the heavy shell, with the first lot scheduled in November, 1956. Award of the facilities contract will be announced later.

With this contract the National Presto organization becomes one of the largest manufacturers of shells in the United States. National Presto has been producing 105 millimeter shells and 105 and 90mm cartridge cases under contract with the Army for many years.

The plant will manufacture shell by the hot-cup-cold-draw method which shows substantial economies over conventional forging. By this method, the shell is produced by forming a hot-cup, which is cold worked for final production.

75mm Ammunition Award

Also awarded by the Army was an Ordnance contract to the Arlington Corporation of St. Paul, Minn., to produce 75mm artillery shells.

The Arlington Corporation submitted the lowest of 56 bids received in national competition.

This contract will be for the installation of a 75mm shell line and production of an undisclosed quantity of shells at a contract cost of approximately $650,000. Delivery schedule will call for the first lot to be produced in the fall of 1955.

This is the Arlington Corporation's first Ordnance contract for artillery shell production.

Shift Three Brigadiers

Brig. Gen. Paul I. Robinson, MC, USA, Commanding General, Madigan Army Hospital, Ft. Lewis, Wash., will be assigned to Letterman Army Hospital, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif. in July.

Brig. Gen. Elbert DeCoursey, MC, USA, Director, Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., will be assigned to the Medical Field Service School, Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. in August.

Brig. Gen. Webster Anderson, QMC, USA, Quartermaster, United States Army, Europe, will return to the United States in June and has been assigned to the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot.

Super-Secret Building At Meade To Boost Population

HOME of Second Army Headquarters, site of one of the Nation's first Nike installations, and Maryland's third largest "city," Ft. George G. Meade, Md., next year will realize a population boost of roughly 10,000 from its present 28,000 when the super-secret National Security Agency building—a junior Pentagon—is completed and occupied.

Already, NSA advance-party personnel are working in temporary office facilities set up in new barracks which in 1956 will house, Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps personnel assigned to the hush-hush activity, under command of Lt. Gen. Ralph J. Canine, USA.

Col. Lindsey

"Mayor" of Meade is Col. Julian B. Lindsey, USA, USMA '29, son of the late Maj. Gen. Julian R. Lindsey, USMA '32, and father of Cadet Robert H. Lindsey, USMA '56. As post commander, Colonel Lindsey directs activities for an area covering 14,000 acres. His budget is about $62,000,000 per year.

Colonel Lindsey and his staff, in addition to working with General Canine's aides in planning for the large influx of personnel and other problems in connection with operations of the National Security Agency, today are assisting the 3d Armored Cavalry Regiment as it prepares to ship out this Summer for Germany in Operation Gyroscope.

At the same time, the Meade family, including the Officers and NCO Wives Clubs, are getting ready to welcome the 2d Armored Cavalry Regiment, which will be returning from Germany.

This switch will be achieved at the same time that more than 6000 Reservists will be undergoing Summer training at the Maryland post.

"All in all," says Colonel Lindsey, "it's going to be a busy Summer."

FT. MEADE, MD. — Newly elected officers of the Officers' Wives Club of Ft. Meade. They are (seated): Mrs. Arthur W. Kellong, president; Mrs. Charles M. Baer, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Charles D. Wiegand, secretary; and Mrs. Kenneth A. Cunin, 2d vice-president.

MEMO For Journal Readers

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, certain to have been invited, may deliver the principal address at ceremonies opening the Air Force Academy at Lowry AFB, Colo., in July. Then president of Columbia University, he was on the board which recommended the third Academy in 1949.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE'S CLASSMATE (USMA '15), Lt. Gen. H. R. Harmon, USAF-Ret., is head of the Academy. If the President can't make this event—and it's possible that Big Four meeting arrangements may prevent it—there's certain to be a special statement from the White House hailing the opening of the new school.

THE AIR FORCE FROWNS on designation of its new school as the "Air Academy." Newsmen have been asked to call it the U. S. Air Force Academy, or Air Force Academy. So what happens? An official Defense Dept. release on 14 May says: "AF Secretary Talbott Unveils Architects Models of Air Academy."

THE ARMY'S DECISION to celebrate with considerable internal fanfare its 180th birthday on 14 June and to make that a day for special activities each year thereafter undoubtedly will prompt similar observances in the other Services. Many thought in 1949 that then SecDef Louis Johnson had cracked down too hard on Service Day celebrations in the interest of Armed Forces Day. Presumably, SecDef Wilson feels that way too, for he has given the green light to Army plans.

LAND MANEUVER RIGHTS, which forced the Army to curtail its intra-Service atomic exercises this year, now have forced postponement of Sage Brush, the huge test involving Army forces and the Tactical Air Command in simulated atomic warfare. Originally slated for 1 Oct., it won't start now until 15 Nov.

HEAVY MAY-JUNE RETIREMENTS point up a universal problem in the Services. Who pays for the refreshments served at retirement receptions? It's a situation which causes much embarrassment and for some—like aides to generals and admirals—considerable expense.

THERE ARE MANY officers and senior NCO's who feel that limited funds should be provided, either from appropriated or non-appropriated sources, to provide appropriate receptions, honoring those leaving the Service after long years of duty. Advocates of such a procedure point out that it's common practice for industrial firms to pay for such ceremonies.

THEY POINT OUT that retirement parades often help promote international goodwill through invitations to attaches, Congressional harmony through presence of legislators, and community support through participation of civic leaders in such festivities throughout the nation. In the end, though, when the parade's done and the reception over, the fiscal problem rubs some of the shine off the event.

FEWER FAT MEN are serving in the Air Force than had been forecast when clothing contracts were let several years ago. As a result of this leanness, the AF's cutting down its large and extra-large coveralls to fill heftier needs for smaller sizes.

AN ANTI-BRASS FEELING is reported among a majority of Navy sailors. A survey is being taken to determine if sailors would like gold buttons for their peacoats, instead of black ones now used. So far, majority opinion favors black buttons, which don't require polishing, to gold ones, which would. There's some chance, however, that gold buttons may be adopted for rated personnel, as a prestige glitter.

UNLESS THERE'S QUICK ACTION at the Pentagon and Budget Bureau in transmitting to Congress long-discussed legislation to provide rehabilitation pay for Reservists eliminated from active duty involuntarily, troubles will develop in fiscal '56. The Army, for example, is slated to drop between 3,000-5,000 Reserve officers in its cut-back program.

PROMISED REHAB PAY legislation for Reservists is one reason the Army and Air Force have elected not to use authority to issue Contract Tours, up to 5 years, to Reservists. The Navy and Marine Corps have issued a limited number of these agreements, which provide compensation for Reservists released ahead of schedule.

NUCLEAR PROPULSION PROGRESS in the Navy, ultimately aimed at an atomic-powered 60,000 ton Forrestal class carrier, has created a pressure problem. Sling-shot catapult devices aboard carriers operate with 1200-pound steam systems. This will be cut in half aboard a nuclear powered ship.

SO THE NAVY must come up with a modified catapult, or figure out alternative take-off techniques. It's a subject of energetic, but classified, study.

UPCOMING JUNE WEEK festivities at West Point and Annapolis and announcement of the first class at the USAF Academy makes timely the disclosure that 713 USMA and USNA graduates resigned from the Army (220), Navy (378) and Air Force (115) during the last fiscal year. That loss compares with a total of 753 cadets who entered West Point in the same year.

"THEY LIVED HERE" plaques denoting residence of the Eisenhowers are turning up at Army posts around the nation. One will be dedicated 21 May at Ft. Lewis, Wash., in connection with Armed Forces Day ceremonies. Then Lt. Col. and Mrs. Eisenhower occupied Quarters 160 on Clarke Road at Lewis in 1941, where he was elected president of the Officers Club. The Eisenhower homesite during his early career service at Ft. Meade, Md., now is part of a picnic ground. The plaque there is guarded by a Sherman tank.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S expressed interest in safeguarding traditional "fringe benefits" for Service families will offset to a great and powerful degree renewed attacks of the Hoover Commission against commissaries and PX's. It's recalled that when commissaries were in peril in 1953 following earlier Hoover Commission reports and Congressional appropriations action, it was a letter from White House Assistant Sherman Adams which first tipped the word that few of these facilities would be closed.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE knows from first-hand experiences covering more than three decades of Army service and from reports he receives from the First Lady, who maintains active contact with Service wives groups, how important the commissary and PX privileges are to the military family.

A NEW BADGE is being developed for Air Force parachutists, who now wear the Army insignia. There are close to 400 AF officers and men drawing parachutist pay, with scores of others qualified but not drawing extra pay. Good guess is that the AF parachutist badge will not be imposed on flight wings; instead will probably be a separate insignia. The Army badge has wings; the Air Force's won't.

it's too late, now!

Yes, he waited a little too long to join the Armed Forces Medical Aid Association. Now dependents' hospital bills, surgery fees, medication charges — are stacking up. They would have all been covered in a policy secured through AFMAA.

AFMAA is a non-profit, all-serviceman organization set up to get health insurance for your dependents. Membership costs only $5.50 a month for wife only. $8.00 with kids. Write today for info—while you've still got time.

RETIREMENT INCOME means FINANCIAL PLANNING

Here's why. You're probably putting some money in a savings account now with retirement in mind. BUT . . . did you know that the person who saved a dollar ten years ago now finds that it can buy about half what it could then?
 To more and more people a planned investment in dividend paying securities through Mutual Fund shares has done much in offsetting that decline.
 In the last several years, thousands of civilians and service personnel have received our counsel on investment planning for extra retirement income. We have helped many to start on the road to a sounder financial future through the planned purchase of Mutual Fund shares. We can help you, too.
 For complete information on this sound approach to a more secure financial future, send for our free booklet, "The Modern Way to Invest."

● Some 750 workers and inspectors who assemble G-E 5-Star high-reliability tubes, wear white lint-free nylon uniforms. The entire working area—a small part of which is shown here—is pressurized with filtered air, to keep out dust. Employees, before entering, walk over gratings through which powerful suction removes dust from shoes.

G-E "Operation Snow White" brings clinical cleanliness to manufacture of 5-Star Tubes!

LINT, dust, and other impurities can cause intermittent tube shorts, because of the close spacing between internal elements. Consequently, dust-free conditions are essential during assembly, to assure the dependability of 5-Star Tubes in military applications.

A dozen advancements join to make possible "Operation Snow White" in G.E.'s Owensboro, Ky., tube plant. Besides the dust-prevention methods shown above, floors are continuously vacuum-cleaned, and mounting tables and conveyors are wiped down twice daily. No outer garments can be brought into the working area, and lunches there are forbidden. Traffic into the area is rigidly controlled. Still other steps feature G.E.'s effort to create factory conditions of unparalleled cleanliness.

Manufactured by a specially-trained employee staff, in a building apart from the rest of the G-E tube plant . . . assembled and inspected in lint-free, dust-free surroundings . . . 5-Star Tubes are the most reliable electronic tubes you can obtain. Ask for them in new land-sea-air military equipment! Install them as replacements! General Electric Company, Tube Department, Schenectady 5, New York.

 EXCEEDS

 ON AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE

Sounds like a big saving on standard automobile insurance . . . and it is.

Almost six million dollars were paid in dividends last year to USAA members on 282,843 policies. During its 33 years over 75 million dollars have been paid out in claims and returned in savings on policies.

Last year USAA automobile policyholders located in the States saved 44% of the standard manual premiums.

USAA was organized in 1922 by Army officers as a non-profit organization to make available automobile insurance at cost. The company has always been managed by active and retired officers of the Armed Forces.

USAA dividends are liberal because losses are kept down. Membership is open to active and retired commissioned and warrant officers of the U.S. Armed Forces . . . a preferred risk group.

USAA dividends are liberal because operating costs are kept down. Selling is done by mail. There are no agents' commissions to pay, or branch office overhead to meet.

Each year more and more Armed Forces officers turn to USAA for automobile and household effects insurance. Nearly 25% more policies were in force in 1954 than in the previous year.

USAA has enjoyed a healthy growth since it was established. Today it is the oldest, largest and strongest non-profit organization serving officers of the U.S. Armed Forces with automobile insurance.

USAA operates in the United States, its possessions and territories; Canada, Cuba and the Canal Zone; Japan, the Philippines, and certain U.S. military bases in the Pacific, as well as in Western Continental Europe. Claims are settled promptly even in the most out-of-the way places.

When its time to insure . . . insure with confidence . . . give yourself the best, and save, too. Insure with USAA!

USAA policies are sold by mail. For information on how USAA can serve you, fill in and mail coupon. No matter whether you're stateside, overseas or on orders, USAA is as close as your nearest mailbox, telephone or telegraph office. Your USAA insurance becomes effective as of postmarked time of application, unless a later date is specified.

ACCUSES HOOVER COMMISSION

Navy League President Carl Stockholm has accused the Hoover Commission of headline hunting and of "misrepresenting" the Navy's hamburger supply.

The Chicago businessman said he has investigated the matter and "The Navy does not have a 60-year supply of canned hamburger."

He said the combat reserve stock of canned hamburgers could be served out in five meals, and the total stock at the Navy Supply Center, Oakland, Calif. (where the Hoover group charged there is a 1,400-year supply), "could be served out in 1.75 meals."

"It is fine to point up errors when they actually exist," the Navy League President said, "but I think it is most unfortunate that so many civilians seek to make whipping boys of the Services solely for the purpose of capturing headlines."

In 1954, the Navy served $282 million worth of food, he said, and spoilage amounted to less than one-third of one per cent.

U. S. COAST GUARD

Secretary of The Treasury—George M. Humphrey
Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond

PROMOTION futures of all active duty Coast Guard officers are affected by new Personnel Manual changes approved by VAdm. Alfred C. Richmond, USCG, Coast Guard Commandant.

The new rules apply to Regulars and Reserves, extra numbers, and permanent warrant officers and enlisted men serving in temporary higher grades.

Henceforth, officers who are passed over by two consecutive selection boards are penalized by being put out of line for promotion. The length of time out of line depends upon the officer's rank and whether he is a temporary or a permanent officer.

This is the way the revised Personnel Manual Chapters operate:

PERMANENT APPOINTMENT

As vacancies occur, permanent promotions will be made in order of precedence. A Board will be convened to recommend those found qualified. If an officer is not recommended by the first board, a second board, none of whose members may be the same as those on the first board, will again consider the candidate. The second board will meet as soon as possible following the Commandant's approval of the first board, but not later than two months from that time. If the officer is picked for advancement by the second board, he will be advanced as though he had been qualified by the first board. If the officer is passed over by the second board, he will be placed permanently out of line for promotion and, if serving in a rank higher than his permanent grade, will be reverted to his permanent grade.

PERMANENT APPOINTMENT FOR ENSIGNS

An ensign becomes eligible for permanent promotion to Lieutenant (jg), regardless of vacancies, upon the expiration of three years' service in grade. If the needs of the service, however, require it, an ensign may be advanced in less than three years. Permanent ensigns will be considered by a board at least three months before the expiration of three years service. Those qualified for advancement will be appointed with a date of rank for precedence purposes which is the same date he held under his appointment for temporary service as a lieutenant (jg). If not found qualified by the first board, the ensign will be reconsidered by a second board not more than two months after the approval of the recommendations of the initial board. If not recommended by the second board, the officer will be permanently out of line for promotion. If he is serving as a temporary lieutenant (jg) he will be reverted to his permanent grade.

TEMPORARY APPOINTMENT

The same procedures will be followed as in the case of permanent appointments. However, if an officer is not found qualified by the second board, he will be placed out of line for promotion for a two year period (one year in the case of a junior grade lieutenant). The period for which an officer is placed out of line for advancement begins on the date when the officer immediately senior to him is promoted. If there is no such officer, then the date of temporary promotion of the senior qualified officer on the list will be the date on which the penalty period starts. An officer placed out of line in accordance with the foregoing rules will be reconsidered by a third board composed of officers who did not sit on the first or second boards. The third board will be convened about two months before the end of the period for which the officer was placed out of line. If found qualified for temporary advancement by this board, the officer will be promoted when the first temporary vacancy occurs.

A vacancy for temporary appointment oc-curing after the approval of the third board but before the expiration of the penalty period will not be reserved. The date of rank in the higher grade will be the date on which the appointment is effected. In no case will it be earlier than the date of expiration of the period during which the officer was placed out of line for promotion.

An officer who is not found qualified for temporary advancement by the third board will be permanently out of line for promotion.

TEMPORARY APPOINTMENT FOR ENSIGNS

Ensigns who have completed periods in grade as prescribed by the Commandant and who have met all promotion exam requirements are eligible for advancement without consideration by a board. If an ensign's record, however, casts doubt upon his moral or professional qualifications, he will be considered by a board at least one month before expiration of the required period of service. If passed by the board, he will be advanced with a date of rank the day after the required period of service as an ensign is completed. For precedence purposes, his date of rank will be the same as if he had not been considered by a board. If he is not found qualified by the board, the same procedure is followed as is the case with other temporary officers.

UNSATISFACTORY PERFORMANCE OF DUTY

This section provides that a board convened to consider officers for temporary promotion shall report the names of officers with less than 20 years' service who are not found to be satisfactorily performing their duty in present grades. Permanent commissioned officers of the Regular Coast Guard officers found to be unsatisfactory will be placed out of line for promotion. Permanent officers of the Regular Coast Guard and permanent chief warrant and warrant officers serving in temporary commissioned grades who are reported for unsatisfactory duty will be honorably discharged from the Service with severance pay. It is to be noted that this section of the Personnel Manual never has had to be used by the Coast Guard. Headquarters emphasized that there is no reason to assume that it will be pressed any more in the future than it has been in the past. It is merely carried on the books as a protection against flagrant violations of rules. Permanent enlisted men reported under this provision will be reverted to their permanent grades.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS 5-A-5

(a). An officer who is not physically qualified for promotion will not be promoted until he may become physically qualified, provided he is otherwise qualified for promotion. His date of rank for precedence purposes shall be the same as though he had been physically qualified in the first instance.

(b). An officer whom a board recommends as qualified for promotion to the next higher grade but whose name is removed by the Commandant from the list of officers qualified for promotion shall be considered for promotion by a special board as soon as practicable after the removal of his name. If he is recommended for promotion by the special board he shall be promoted as though his name had not been removed, unless his name is again removed by the Commandant. If the special board does not recommend him for promotion or if the Commandant again removes his name, he shall be placed out of the line of promotion for a period of two years (one year in the case of a lieutenant (junior grade) commencing with the date of approval of the special board or the day on which the Commandant withholds his name for the second time.

(c). The name of any officer who is placed permanently out of line for promotion will be removed from the precedence list for purposes of any and all further promotions.

(d). Any officer who is so placed permanently out of line of promotion under any provision of this Section and who has ten years of commissioned service, becomes eligible for consideration for retirement under the provisions of 14 USC 235 wherein the Personnel Board may recommend for retirement such commissioned officers of the Coast Guard who have been placed out of the line of promotion and who have ten (10) years commissioned service.

(e). An officer who has failed a promotion examination for which he has been scheduled shall not be promoted until he has passed a re-examination in the subject he failed. An officer who has failed to take an examination for which he has been scheduled without obtaining proper approval for postponement in accordance with appropriate existing directives shall not be promoted until he has passed a re-scheduled examination in that subject. A permanent commissioned officer of the grade of ensign or above who fails a re-examination shall be placed permanently out of the line of promotion and, if serving in a grade for temporary service higher than his permanent grade, shall be reverted to his permanent grade. A permanent chief warrant or warrant officer or enlisted man serving for temporary service in the grade of ensign or above, who fails a re-examination, shall be reverted to his permanent grade.

Officer Promotion Exams

Personnel Circular No. 17-55 is being revised and is expected to be ready for distribution in the near future.

The following information is published for the benefit of officers who are now preparing for the September examination:

GENERAL DUTY OFFICERS

A GDO who elects to participate in the September test should select an exam from his appropriate rank column in Table Ia of the Circular. Elementary Accounting and Elementary Supply under column 2 will be taken as one exam. Travel and Transportation and General Supply will be taken as one exam under column 4. GDO's who have completed all the examinations listed in their rank columns will not need to take any exams in September.

SPECIAL DUTY OFFICERS

SDO's, with the exception of aviation specialists, who elect to participate in the September tests, should pick one of the basic subjects listed in paragraph 1 of Table II.

AVIATION SPECIALISTS

MONEY AWAITS POW'S

More than 800 former POW's in Korea have failed to file claims with the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission for compensation under Public Law 615.

The deadline for filing such claims in most cases is 21 August, 1955.

In cases of death of the former prisoner of war, claims may be filed by the surviving widow, husband, children or parents.

Payment is authorized to be made at the rate of $250 per day for each day of imprisonment.

Any members of the U. S. Armed Forces presently held as prisoners of war as a result of the Korean hostilities will be eligible to file their claims within one year after returning to American Military Control.

Survivors of prisoners of war who have not returned to the jurisdiction of the Armed Forces of the United States may file not later than one year from the date the Department of Defense makes a determination that the prisoner of war has actually died or is presumed dead.

General Hull, USA-Ret., Vice Chairman For POW Commission Under Asst. SecDef

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson this week appointed a Joint Civilian-Military Committee, headed by Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burgess, and with General John E. Hull, USA-Ret., as vice chairman, to advise him on POW problems.

Military membership of the Committee also includes Lt. Gen. Frank W. Milburn, USA-Ret.; VADM. C. A. Lockwood, USN-Ret.; Lt. Gen. Idwal H. Edwards, USAF-Ret.; and Maj. Gen. Merritt Edson, USMC-Ret.

Mr. Wilson said he was "deeply concerned with the importance to our national security of providing Americans who serve their country in battle with every means we can devise to defeat the enemy's techniques. To assure the success of our Armed Forces in defending the Nation, it is equally as essential to arm them with the best weapons of the mind and body as it is to provide them with the machines of war."

Therefore, the main purpose of the Committee, Secretary Wilson said, will be to provide for thorough indoctrination of each member of the Armed Forces with a "simple, easily understood code to govern his conduct while a prisoner of war."

Civilian members of the Committee include Dr. Frank Berry, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health and Medical); Hugh M. Milton, II, Assistant Secretary of the Army (Manpower and Reserve Forces); Albert Pratt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Personnel and Reserve Forces); and David S. Smith, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force (Manpower and Personnel).

In a memorandum to the Chairman, Secretary Wilson pointed out that potential enemies "employ every means of physical, mental and moral persuasion in the struggle for the minds of men, and that modern warfare places grave responsibilities upon and demands supreme sacrifices from members of the Armed Forces."

Text of the memorandum:

"I am deeply concerned with the importance to our national security of providing Americans who serve their country in battle with every means we can devise to defeat the enemy's techniques. To assure the success of our Armed Forces in defending the nation, it is equally as essential to arm them with the best weapons of the mind and body as it is to provide them with the machines of war.

"Our national military needs must be met. This requires that each member of the Armed Forces be thoroughly indoctrinated with a simple, easily understood code to govern his conduct while a prisoner of war. However, this military need must be met in a manner compatible with the principles and precepts basic to our form of government. Enforcement must be accomplished with justice and understanding.

"I have appointed this Committee to advise me on these matters. I request that you consider the methods we may expect our potential enemy to employ, the obligation which national military needs impose on members of the Armed Forces, and the obligation of the United States to afford protection to its citizens in the custody of a foreign power. I direct your deliberation toward the development of suitable recommendations for a Code of Conduct and indoctrination and training in preparation for future conflict. You will also consider certain other related Prisoner of War problem areas which I will make known.

"Staff support will be supplied in the form of a Secretariat, with the Staff Director from the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (M&P), the Deputy Staff Director from the Office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and one officer from each of the services, the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps for full-time staff duty.

"Legal counsel will be provided by the Office of the General Counsel (OSD), and research assistance will be supplied through the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (R&D).

"Liaison between this Committee and government agencies outside the Department of Defense will be conducted with the help of the appropriate office in the Office of the Secretary of Defense as coordinated by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (M&P).

"It is desired that this Committee submit its recommendations within two months after its first meeting."

Maj. Alexander Pavlak has retired from active duty with the Army after more than 27 years of service. The announcement was made by Col. W. K. Alston, commanding officer of the Chicago Quartermaster Depot, Chicago, Ill., Major Pavlak's duty station upon retirement.

At a brief retirement ceremony held in the office of the Depot commander, Colonel Alston presented Major Pavlak with a Certificate of Achievement, an Honorable Discharge Certificate, and a letter of commendation. Witnessing the event were Col. Elmer A. Kell, jr., chief of the QM purchasing division at the depot, and his assistant, Lt. Col. Ralph P. St. John.

Major and Mrs. Pavlak left for their home at 298 Oldfield Street, Staten Island, N. Y. Next on their list is a Florida fishing vacation, following which Major Pavlak plans to enter the University of Tampa.

Hoover Group Hits Commissaries, PXs; Asks Price Boost, Elimination Of "Luxuries"

A new attack on military commissaries and post exchanges was launched this week by the Hoover Commission.

The Commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, believes PX and commissary prices should be boosted, "high unit" items should be eliminated from PX shelves, and overall operation of the Service "grocery" and "drug stores" should be further curtailed.

Officers' clubs, base restaurants, swimming pools, theaters and Naval shipyards also came under fire. The Commission wants another commission appointed to look into the possibility of disposing of some of the Navy yards, which represent "a destructive intrusion into the private shipbuilding industry."

In addition, all Service bakeries, meat cutting plants, dry cleaning plants, most laundries, Army and Marine Corps clothing plants, and the Navy's custom tailor shop should be closed down, the Commission said.

In its latest report, on "Business Enterprises" in the Government, the Commission estimates that the Defense Department has more than 2,500 commercial and industrial-type facilities which compete with private industry. The Commission recommends "if carried out in full" would eliminate "approximately 1,000" of these activities, the report states.

Commissaries-PXs

The Commission recommends that steps be taken to:

- Confine commissaries and PXs to localities where adequate or reasonably convenient services are not available.
- Confine their use to military personnel in all cases, except in isolated and overseas locations.
- Boost prices to cover all operating costs.
- Impose and enforce penalties for resale by purchasers of any goods bought at commissaries and PXs.
- Terminate use of uniformed personnel (except supervisory personnel) in PXs.
- Drop PX sales (except in isolated areas) of luxuries, jewelry, sporting goods, cameras and other items of high unit value.
- Consider turning commissary and PX operations over to private industry on a contract basis.
- Have the Comptroller General make a complete survey of commissary and post exchange operations to determine the "real" costs of operation, including cost of military personnel, depreciation, interest, tax exemptions; taxes receivable from alternative private enterprise, and thus determine what the "fringe benefits" really are and what the profit and loss really is.

The Commission reports that, including branches, the Defense Department operates 438 commissary stores with total sales in 1954 of $306 million, and 3,150 post exchanges (including 2,700 overseas) with 1954 sales slightly in excess of $1 billion.

The PXs are not self-sustaining, the Commission contends, and the commissaries would have to charge 7 to 10½ per cent more to clear costs.

"Commissary operations have continually expanded," the Commission states, "to the extent that today they present a real problem of Government competition with private enterprise in many metropolitan localities." Some PXs "have developed into large retail operations with choice stocks of standard brand merchandise comparable to that of a department store."

Officers' Clubs-Restaurants

In addition to the direct business aspects of commissary and PX operations, the Commission found that "other serious problems" have arisen in connection with these activities and with officers' clubs, base restaurants, base theaters, base swimming pools and other activities operated with non-appropriated funds. "Their organizational structure is insufficiently defined," the Commission states, "and their legal characteristics are difficult to classify. Legal problems of many kinds have resulted from their extensive operations, numerous employees and varied widespread dealings with members of the military and the public."

The Hoover group recommends that Congress study the organization and operation of these activities to determine how to eliminate or minimize the legal problems they present to the Government, the need for adequate audit powers over them, and the desirability of bringing their employee relationships into conformity with other Government-related activities.

Activities To Be Closed

The Commission reported that the Services operate 46 commercial-type bakeries, 71 meat-cutting plants, 360 laundries and dry-cleaning plants, 38 commercial-type dry cleaning plants, 125 commercial-type laundries, two clothing manufacturing plants and one officers' custom tailor shop. All should "be closed," the Commission recommends, except those facilities in isolated and overseas areas, and laundries "needed to perform hazardous operations."

This action, along with the shut-down of other activities, would free "many thousands of uniformed Service personnel," the Commission states, "to perform their real function—the defense of our country."

Figures reported by the Commission show that 23,000 civilians and 2,193 Service personnel are presently employed in the 643 activities which are recommended to be closed.

The clothing manufacturing plants operated by the Army and Marine Corps and the Navy officers' custom tailor shop at the Brooklyn Naval Shipyard "compete with the cut, make and trim industry," the report states. The Commission says the justifications offered by the Services for continued operation of these three activities are not warranted.

Naval Shipyards

In the section on Naval shipyards, the Commission reports that the Defense Department owns a total of 48 shipyards (32 leased to private parties, six inactive and 10 operated by the Navy).

There is a growing tendency for the Navy to take over more and more shipbuilding, the Commission states. Before WWII, the Government employed only 36 per cent of the Nation's shipyard workers; today the Navy employs 51 per cent of all the shipyard workers in the country.

"Considering the idle capacity of private shipyards to construct and repair all types of naval vessels," the Commission subcommittee which made the study "considers that the Navy's operation of all these 10 shipyards represents a destructive intrusion into the private shipbuilding industry of this country."

As a clincher, the Commission urged that "all public laws which require or permit the Armed Services to engage in business operations which can be performed by private industry be reviewed and amended to permit private business to provide military requirements to a greater extent."

One member of the Commission, Representative Chet Hollifield (D-Calif.), dissented. He objected to the "summary, mechanical and sometimes arbitrary manner" in which the Commission would dispose of the Government's business-type activities.

A footnote in the report points out that "Commissioner Bridges [Senator Styles Bridges (R-NH)] wants it known that he did not participate" in the recommendation on Naval shipyards.

BARC TO ARCTIC

The Army Transportation Corps' giant amphibious carrier, the BARC, will be tested under Arctic conditions this summer when it participates in the Support Unit North East Command operation.

Four experimental amphibians will be transported from Ft. Story, Va., to Goose Bay, Labrador, and Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island after June.

defense ON CAPITOL HILL

WHAT SHOULD THE PENTAGON do with its business-type activities? The Hoover Commission thinks many of them should be closed up post-haste. The House Appropriations Committee thinks the Defense Secretary has been a little hasty in getting rid of those few which he already has eliminated. A new provision which the Committee has written into the House-approved Defense Appropriations bill makes it impossible for the Pentagon to take any such step in the future unless it justifies the move before the proper Congressional committees. The Appropriations Committee said it recognizes that there may be circumstances which make a contract operation more desirable than continuation of work by civilian personnel within the Department. But, in some instances, this "represents a radical departure from established custom and it is conceivable that contract operations could, if carried to extremes, result in a loss of trained personnel and know-how within the departments with the dispersal of tools and facilities and result in an actually greater cost to the Government over a period of years."

THE HUSH-HUSH ASPECTS of the Defense Appropriations measure were lampooned on the House floor by Representative Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.) who led an unsuccessful fight to restore Army, Navy and Marine Corps manpower cuts. He was opposed by Appropriations Committee Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) who told the House that "important testimony, submitted in executive session, is not on the record." He said committee members had received classified information "which they cannot pass on." Congressman Flood said the "secret" testimony which supposedly justified the cuts was "cloak and dagger stuff. Even this mistake of mine should have been in that act. Very, very secret indeed. Very theatrical."

A NEW STUDY OF THE UNIFORM CODE of Military Justice has been asked by Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa.). He told the House this week that the code "should receive careful scrutiny during the present session of Congress with a view to substantial change." He said the code "although designed to make things easier or fairer for accused persons" has instead made Federal criminal offenders of many "who, but for the code, would have had their cases disposed of by a commanding officer and would thus have avoided a record of conviction by a court-martial."

RECRUITING PRACTICES will undergo a major change in all Services during the coming fiscal year unless the Pentagon can get the Senate to knock out a House provision in the Defense Appropriations Bill. A last-minute amendment accepted by the House provides that the Services can have only half as many recruiters during '56 as they now have, and they may spend none of the Defense money to pay rent on space used for recruiting.

THE AMENDMENT was the brainchild of Representative Paul C. Jones (D-Mo). He says most Congressmen "or at least many of us" believe the draft law is "the most effective service for recruiting that we could have." Men volunteer for the Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps, he said, "because they know that the draft is blowing down on their neck."

AS A RESULT OF THE CUTBACK, the Marine Corps may find itself with more recruiting vehicles than recruiters. Although the Services have not been permitted to buy passenger vehicles for some time except on a replacement basis, the Marine Corps this year was granted special permission to spend $309 thousand to buy 221 recruiting vehicles.

THE DEPENDENTS MEDICAL CARE PLAN may soon be aired before the House Armed Services Committee. Reporting on the doctor draft act which it voted to extend last week, the Committee said "it is obvious that in one form or another, dependent medical care must be continued." The entire matter will be "carefully examined," the report continues, "in an effort to develop an alternative plan relieving to some extent the use of service physicians for dependent medical care."

DESIGNATION OF FT. LEONARD WOOD, MO. as a permanent military installation is being urged by Rep. A. S. J. Carnahan (D-Mo) and the Missouri House of Representatives. The Fort, Mr. Carnahan says, "is one of the best equipped Army camps in the United States, yet for the want of a permanent designation this installation is operating on a costly short-time basis." He added that soldiers at the base are "adversely affected by lack of off-base housing and countless other facilities which would be provided if there was the security of permanence at this installation."

NAVAL VETERANS OF 1898 and their dependents are not being accorded the same treatment granted Army veterans, according to Rep. Philip J. Philbin (D-Mass). He is endorsing House Joint Resolution 151 which seeks to correct an injustice to Naval veterans of the Spanish-American War. Only about 20 surviving veterans and widows would benefit from the legislation, he says. At present, no pension is allowed widows of Naval veterans of the combat area who had as much as 89 days of actual service, whereas widows of Army volunteers, with no duty in the combat zone and only 60 days of actual service, receive a full pension. HJRes 151 "will correct this inequity," Mr. Philbin says.

Legislative Calendar

2d ANG Cross-Country Jet Race Set For 2 July

The second annual cross-country jet race between Air National Guard pilots will be held 2 July.

The Air Force Association, sponsors of the competition, has asked each of the 22 ANG wings to nominate one pilot to compete in the event. Winner will receive the Earl T. Ricks Memorial Trophy.

The speed run between Los Angeles and Detroit was won last year by Lt. Charles J. Young, a member of New Jersey's 141st Fighter Squadron, who flew a North American F-86 Sabre Jet the course distance in three hours, 27 minutes and 13 seconds. His average speed was 560.44 miles per hour. The trophy will be presented to the winner at the Association's annual convention 10-14 Aug. in San Francisco.

SGT.'S $400,000 PROJECT

M/Sgt. Ernest Chaput of Offutt AFB, Nebr., who retires 31 May, will keep in action.

The owner of 10½ acres of land near Omaha, he plans to build 25 homes in a project representing investment of more than $400,000.

The sergeant says his Service income coupled with "prudent investments" make possible the new venture.

His retirement will mark the end of 30 years service.

A son, 1st Lt. Richard Chaput, USA, is at Ft. Devens, Mass.

Obituaries

General Charles P. Summerall, USA-Ret.

General Charles P. Summerall, former Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, died 14 May at Walter Reed Army Hospital, after a long illness.

General Summerall was born near Lake City, Fla., 4 March 1867. He was graduated from Porter Military Academy, Charleston, S. C., in 1885 and from the U. S. Military Academy in 1892. Commissioned on graduation a second lieutenant of Infantry, he transferred in March, 1893, to the Corps of Artillery. He served as a lieutenant in Battery F, 5th Artillery, commanded by Capt. Henry J. Rellly, in the Philippine Campaigns 1898-99, and in the China Relief Expedition during the Boxer Rebellion of 1900-1901, being cited three times for gallantry in action during the Philippine Insurrection and twice during the Boxer Rebellion. Of his citations for gallantry during the Boxer Rebellion, one was awarded for his legendary heroism in blowing open, with his platoon of two field pieces, the gates of the Imperial City, Peking, so that the 14th Infantry could enter.

As a captain, which rank he attained in 1901, General Summerall located and initiated construction of Ft. William H. Seward, Alaska in 1902. A year later, he assumed command of the 3d Battery, F. A., at Chickamauga Park, Ga., marching it to Ft. Myer, Va., a distance of over 700 miles, one of the longest artillery marches on record. From 1905 to 1911, he was senior instructor of Artillery Tactics at the U. S. Military Academy. From 1911, when he was promoted to major, to 1917, General Summerall successively commanded the 2d and 3d F. A. Bns. stationed at Ft. Myer, and served in the Office, Chief of the Militia Bureau, War Department, in charge of the Field Artillery of the National Guard. During this period, he was a lecturer at the Army War College and also located and negotiated the purchase of artillery ranges at Tobyhanna, Pa.; Anniston, Ala. and Monterey, Calif.

Appointed a brigadier general, National Army, in August 1917, he commanded successively the 67th F. A. Brigade, 42d Division and the 1st F. A. Brigade, 1st Division, in which latter capacity he participated prominently in the assault and capture of Cantigny in May, 1918. Appointed a major general, National Army, two months later, he assumed command of the 1st Division, commanding it during the Aisne-Marne offensive, the St. Mihiel offensive and in the first phase of the Meuse-Argonne offensive. He was then promoted to command of the V Corps, which he retained until the Armistice. Subsequently, General Summerall commanded the IX and IV Corps; was a member of the Allied Mission of Generals to negotiate the Fiume dispute and was attached to the American Commission to Negotiate Peace. He was appointed a major general, Regular Army, in 1920.

Upon his return to the U. S. after the War, General Summerall was again assigned to the 1st Division, which he commanded at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., and later, at Camp Dix, N. J. From 1921 to 1924, he commanded the Hawaiian Department, which assignment was followed successively by command of the VIII Corps Area, with headquarters at San Antonio, Tex. and the II Corps Area with headquarters at Governors Island, N. Y. General Summerall was appointed Chief of Staff of the Army 21 Nov. 1926, which office he held until 21 Nov. 1930. As the result of the President's signing on 23 Feb. 1929, the bill providing that the Chief of Staff have the rank and title of General, General Summerall became the sixth officer on the active list of the Army to hold that grade.

General Summerall's tour as Chief of Staff was marked by his achievements in improving the Army both in morale and efficiency. Holding that office during a period in which military appropriations, even more than usual, suffered, due to Governmental economy, his administration remains conspicuously noteworthy for such achievements as obtaining an increase in soldier's ration from 25 to 50 cents a day; initiating the construction of new quarters and barracks at Army posts, a program that has continued ever since; providing accommodations for officers and enlisted men and their families at Ports of Embarkation and the formation of the First Experimental Mechanized Force, U. S. Army.

General Summerall was placed on the retired list of the Army 31 March 1931. Shortly thereafter, he accepted the Presidency of The Citadel, the Military College of South Carolina, at Charleston, entering upon the duties of that office 1 September 1931. He retired as President Emeritus of The Citadel 30 June 1953, after an administration that defies emulation.

General Summerall was made a Mason at Sight in 1935 and shortly thereafter, received the 33 Degree. A member of the Supreme Council, Southern Jurisdiction of Scottish Rite Masonry, he first held the office of Grand Treasurer General followed by that of Grand Minister of State. He was Sovereign Grand Inspector General of the Scottish Rite in South Carolina and represented the Supreme Councils of Canada and France on the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite in the United States.

General Summerall's decorations include the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star Medal with four Oak Leaf Clusters, Commander of the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with two Palms of France, Grand Officer of the Crown of Belgium, Commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy, the Order of Prince Danilo I of Montenegro, Grand Ribbon Polonia Restituta of Poland, the Military Medal of Panama and the Order of Military Merit of Cuba. He held the honorary degree of LL.D and Doctor of Military Science.

In 1901, as a captain, General Summerall married Miss Laura Mordecai, daughter of Brig. Gen. Alfred Mordecai, Ordnance Department. Mrs. Summerall died in 1948. General Summerall is survived by a son, Col. Charles P. Summerall, jr., USA-Ret.; a grandson, Charles P. Summerall, 3d; a granddaughter, Mrs. John Clair Smith, 2d, and a great-granddaughter, Margaret Pelot Smith.

Funeral services were held at the Ft. Myer, Va. Chapel 17 May, followed by interment in Arlington National Cemetery. The family requested that, in lieu of flowers, contributions be sent to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

READY FOR SHIPMENT is the Allison J71-A-11 axial flow turbo-jet engine which has passed the official 150-hour USAF qualification test with demonstrated thrust in excess of 10,000 pounds. The non-afterburning-11 engine is installed in the USAF's four-engine Douglas RB-66 reconnaissance bomber and B-66 bomber.

USAF Will Liberalize Depreciation Credits

The Air Force is about to liberalize its rules for depreciation allowances. Asst. Secy. Roger Lewis (Materiel) has approved new interim regulations to permit accelerated amortization for facilities for aircraft firms. The Air Materiel Command is expected to issue the new rules in the next few weeks.

The USAF Auditor-General had issued orders that no allowances other than "straight-line" depreciation were to be considered for contracts or in negotiations until the Defense Department adopted an overall policy for depreciation allowances.

The new proposed cost allowance principles (Section XV, ASPR) now being reviewed by industry contain a section allowing rapid write-offs similar to those in the Internal Revenue Code of the new tax law. However, many Pentagon auditing and procurement officials believe it may be three or four months before these are officially accepted.

Air Force officials believe their new interim rules will satisfy complaints of the aircraft industry and aid in expediting negotiation of many pending large contracts.

B-52 Simulator Ready For AF This Summer

A B-52 flight simulator with added realistic features will be ready for delivery to the Air Force this Summer.

Constructed now by the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, the simulator will be an exact replica of the giant plane's cockpit. Electronic equipment is used to reproduce faithfully sounds and sensations of actual flight.

The B-52 simulator will include many new features developed by Curtiss-Wright engineers. Provision also is made for the addition of USAF auxiliary equipment later.

For the first time, the cockpit will be fully enclosed so that lightning can be realistically portrayed. A complete oxygen system, including face masks, will be added to simulate high-altitude flight conditions.

The B-52 unit will measure approximately 30 by 27 feet and will be comparable in size to the Convair B-36 simulators.

Another innovation will be soundproofing of the instructor's compartment to increase the impression of long-distances where radio communication with the crew is involved.

Sound effects in the simulator are being based on tape recordings made in flight. The sound system in simulators, however, is completely electronic and uses neither tapes nor discs.

Even bailing-out may be practiced by crews if instructor-created emergencies makes this necessary. This will be restricted, however, to procedure training only.

Allison J71 Given Rating Over 10,000 lb. Thrust

The Allison J71 turbo-jet has officially qualified as a 10,000 pound thrust engine. It has been announced by E. B. Newill, general manager of the Allison Division and vice-president of General Motors.

"Based on the official 150-hour USAF qualification test, the J71 demonstrated thrust in excess of 10,000 pounds with the highest pressure ratio of any single-compressor engine yet developed," he asserted. "In addition this engine develops more thrust per square foot of frontal area than any jet engine ever produced."

The J71 maintains the basic diameter of the Allison J35 turbo-jet. However, static thrust of the unaugmented J71 exceeds that of the latest non-afterburning engine in the J35 series by 44 per cent. Without afterburner the J71 measures 19.4 inches in length with a diameter of 39.5 inches.

"The J71 is the most powerful engine ever produced by Allison," Mr. Newill pointed out. "As an engine capable of powering modern strategic fighter or bomber aircraft, it has unlimited potential," he emphasized.

"This engine was developed under USAF sponsorship to meet the need for a single-compressor engine with high compression ratio which would match good fuel economy with maximum thrust output," Mr. Newill declared.

The J71 presently powers the USAF's twin-engine Douglas RB-66 reconnaissance bomber and B-66 bomber, and also, the Navy's F3H carrier-based fighter. In addition, the Navy's revolutionary swept-wing seaplane—the Martin XP6M Seamaster—will fly in the near future powered by four J71 power plants.

Afterburners are used for thrust augmentation of the J71 in two of these installations, according to Mr. Newill. "In the F3H, the afterburner is used to maintain high engine power at maximum altitudes and on the XP6M a shorter afterburner is designed for additional power boost at takeoff."

Red Airpower

planes the Communists are at least in the process of surpassing the United States, and I am confident that they are well ahead with the production of the possible ultimate weapon—the intercontinental ballistic missile."

Mr. Symington said that the Defense Department statement shows Secretary Charles E. Wilson was "dead wrong" when he gave assurances a year ago that "the Soviets were building primarily a defensive air force."

Coincidental with Senator Symington's speech, Chairman Richard Russell (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee, said his group would conduct an inquiry into the strength of U. S. airpower in light of new developments.

That inquiry could well provoke from Air Force leaders the observation that the 137 wing strength may need to be revised upward.

As preparations were being made for this investigation, President Eisenhower spoke out to say that the U. S. had not lost air supremacy to the Communists.

"Just Not True" Reds Are Ahead

President Eisenhower, at his news conference on 18 May, was asked to comment on the charge by Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) that the Russians have threatened U.S. airpower leadership.

Here are excerpts from the President's response:

"As everyone who is experienced in warfare knows, control of the air is a relative thing, and anybody with a certain amount of air force can gain control over a place where he chooses to concentrate his air, and for a given space of time, or temporary space of time, even in the face of great general superiority on the other side."

"The Germans did it to us as late as January 1, 1945."

"Back in 1948-49, we began to build heavily these B-36's, well known it was a transition aircraft. It was an aircraft that did give us a big intercontinental bomber at the same time that we knew that the day of the big jet bomber was coming along."

"But you have to standardize at different periods, on particular types. Now, those B-36 planes were good planes for their day, and now they are being phased out as others will come along."

"So, in the very new ones, since with this possession of this intercontinental bomber, we had a chance to work for a really fine type in the B-52 and its successors, which will certainly come along, we may not have as many B-52's as we should like at this moment."

"I don't know the exact number, but to say that we have lost in a twinkling all of this great technical development and technical excellence, as well as the numbers in our total aircraft is just not true."

Asked if there had been any developments requiring a revised estimate of Russian air strength, the President said:

"Well, this is what I believe: that from time to time, in several lines of endeavor, scientific endeavor, aircraft and others, there has come in evidence that exceeded predictions of what—where they would be at any particular moment."

"Now, I remember approving a statement that was issued on that aircraft, and I have forgotten the details of it, so I want to be a little bit guarded in my speech, but we do know that they flew past—they didn't fly past on May Day, you know, it was bad weather—but in practice for the May Day they flew past several times, a number of aircraft, among which were a few of items which, by the size of their engines, size of the airframe, would certainly be capable of long-distance flight, carrying heavy loads."

"Now, what their condition is inside, what their readiness of technical perfection and all the things that we know go into one of these things, nobody knows."

Renovate Sill Quarters

Renovation and rehabilitation are in order for approximately 215 dependent quarters at Ft. Sill, Okla., with seven housing areas directly affected by the program.

The work done in the areas includes remodeling in the kitchen and bath room and increasing the electrical capacity with outlets for air conditioners, clothes dryers and washers included.

The kitchens will have the old finish stripped off and partitions removed where required; the walls will be re-plastered and a vinyl plastic floor covering laid. New steel kitchen cabinets, sinks and exhaust fans will also be installed.

First Shipment Of "Army Green" Due; Soldier Wear Will Start 1 September 1956

The Army will receive its first shipment of Army Green material this month—enough to outfit every man on active duty with one new AG-44 uniform.

First issue of the uniform will not be made to troops until September 1956, but the Army has completed purchase of six million yards of the AG-44 material and is completing plans to have it made up into one and a half-million uniforms.

Although $30 million had been set aside for initial procurement of the AG-44 cloth, the Army disclosed that it was able to purchase the material at "a saving of approximately $8.6 million." Total purchase price of the 6,019,000 yards was $21,404,366.

As previously reported in THE JOURNAL, the Army Green will be phased into the Army supply system as the old OD uniform is phased out. Starting on 1 Sept. 1956, enlisted men being issued initial allowances of clothing will receive one OD uniform and one AG-44 uniform.

This one and one issue will continue until stocks of the OD uniform are reduced to the point where further issue becomes uneconomical.

On 1 September 1956, the AG-44 uniform will go on sale in both Quartermaster outlets and commercial sources. It will be authorized for wear "except in formations."

By 1 September 1958, the Army hopes it will be able to cease the issuance of OD uniforms. This will depend on the stock position of the old uniform. Two AG-44 uniforms will be issued as part of the initial allowance and all troop formations will be taken in the new uniform. ODs will continue to be authorized for wear except in formations.

By 1 September 1960, OD wear will be discontinued. All enlisted men will be required to possess two AG-44 uniforms and all officers will be required to possess "sufficient quantities" of the new uniform to appear in it when so ordered.

If the reduction of existing stocks of OD takes place at a faster rate than is now anticipated, the Army said, "or conversely at a slower rate," the 1 September 1958 date will be adjusted accordingly.

Col. Stuart Will Write New Ordnance Manual

Col. Alexander J. Stuart, jr., USA, former Chief of Staff of the Ordnance Training Command, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., has been named chairman of an "Ad Hoc" committee charged with writing a Field Manual for Ordnance Medium Maintenance Companies.

Congress Draws Battle Lines Over Hoover Reports; Claim "Sniping" Obscures Progress

Members of Congress are choosing up sides in the running battle of the Hoover Commission Vs. The Pentagon.

Principally in the Hoover corner are members of the Dawson House Government Operations Subcommittee. This group (two of whose members also are members of the Hoover Commission) has been busily burying the Navy under an avalanche of hamburgers.

Champions of the Defense Department include members of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittees. They believe the Hoover reports are filled with "sensational information" and are "inaccurate."

There is some crossing of lines, however. Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), a member of the Dawson group and a member of the Hoover Commission, thinks the Commission is often wrong. He has dissented from many of its views. In the latest report covering commissary and PX operations he objects to "the summary, mechanical and sometimes arbitrary manner" in which the Commission reaches its conclusions.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), the other Dawson Subcommittee member who also serves on the Hoover Commission is adamant in his defense of the Hoover group. He likes "yes" and "no" answers, especially with regard to Navy hamburgers.

The Hoover Commission thinks the Navy has a 60-year supply of canned hamburgers. Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas says the Commission's view is "distorted."

His attempts to explain the hamburger picture were not too successful. Many of his statements were cut off in mid-sentence. Congressman Brown wanted the Navy Secretary to give only the information for which he was asked. "You just answer the questions," he told Mr. Thomas, "if you were in a court someone would chew your ears off."

The Navy's side of the hamburger story went pretty much untold in the Dawson Subcommittee's inquiry.

It remained for Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Mass.), member of the House Appropriations Committee, to give further details on the House floor.

He says indications are that the various figures included in the Hoover Commission report "were not at all accurate, that some of them related to the past and not to the present." Far from having a 60-year supply of hamburgers, the Navy has reported, he says, that it has only a five-months supply "over and above special program reserve requirements."

Another member of the Appropriations Committee, Representative Glenn R.

Davis (R-Wis.) says he thinks the Pentagon is kept so busy "trying to dig up the facts" for those who "keep sniping away at the Department of Defense" that they don't have time to tell about the real economies which have been accomplished.

The 60-year supply of hamburgers may be a 60-year supply "when we are not using canned hamburger" in daily issues, he says, but in an emergency it "would come in mighty handy."

Mr. Davis said an attempt is now being made to stockpile civilian defense medical supplies for use during an emergency, and "some investigator, probably, within the next few weeks will make headlines in all the newspapers by saying we have a 100-year supply of adhesive tape stored away somewhere."

He indicated the tape might be a 100-year supply as far as "current use" goes but probably would be erased quickly in case of a "catastrophe."

Representative Robert L. F. Sikes (D-Fla.), also a member of the Appropriations Committee, said "I am convinced that much of the sensational information on military medical care, transportation and supplies which came out of the Hoover Commission findings failed to give a true picture of what is taking place or that it can even be substantiated through careful examination."

Appropriations Committee member Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.) says he has voted for Hoover Commission reports which came to the Capitol in previous Congresses but now the Commission "is sending more reports up here than the President of the United States is sending up. They are coming too fast, they are going too far, and they want to do too much."

A fifth member of the Committee, Representative Edward T. Miller (R-Md.), said "We of the committee do not hesitate to take the gloves off and sail into the armed services when we think they are wrong. Often they are wrong. It is only logical, because running so stupendous, so huge an operation, if misunderstandings did not occur and mistakes were not made by the people in charge, they would not be human. However, I do want to suggest that great care be given in reading these headlines about huge waste, of overbuying and oversupplying."

He continued, "We do not like eating combat rations in time of peace or times like the present except for training purposes and to reduce waste, but what might be a year's supply under present conditions might be but a few months' supply in an emergency."

Fifth Army Will Be Host To Track & Field Contest

Lt. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, USA, Commanding General of Fifth Army, will be host to the 1955 All-Army Track and Field and Triathlon Championships, scheduled 18 and 19 June at Ft. Riley, Kans.

Top-flight soldier athletes from installations in all parts of the country and from around the world will compete in this major sports event.

In addition to championship awards and individual medallions to the first three place winners in each contest, the General George S. Patton, jr., Trophy will go to the top, overall scoring champion in the triathlon.

President's Views

put in some qualifications.

"I have never believed in the uncontrolled spread of the Post Exchanges of the United States Army. But I believe to take away the commissary privileges and the Post Exchange privileges from military, uniformed personnel, wherever they may be, when these are really needful things in order to give them the normal business of living, and giving it to them at a decent price, I believe it would be a terrible injustice to those people."

"Now, on the other hand, it is one of those things in which just judgment must come in order that a privilege is not abused and becomes something that is intolerable."

Reps. Vinson and Short Disagree On Reserve

Final House action on the Reserve Forces Bill got underway this week with members engaged in spirited debate on the measure as THE JOURNAL went to press.

Surprise opposition came from Representative Dewey Short (R-Mo), ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. An outspoken foe of Universal Military Training, Congressman Short said the new plan gives UMT "a foot in the door."

The Committee Chairman, Representative Carl Vinson (D-Ga) stoutly defended the measure as a sound program for building up the Nation's military reserve. He said the plan is essential to the national defense, and the six-month trainee program which it provides is a "volunteer" program which has no connection with UMT.

A subcommittee headed by Representative Overton Brooks (D-La) completed a full-scale revision of the plan before it was reported out by the full Committee.

Here are highlights of the measure as it went to the floor:

1—A maximum Reserve obligation of eight years is provided for all categories of Reserve personnel. The Pentagon had asked for 10 in the case of six-month trainees.

2—The Services (principally the Army, Marine Corps and Coast Guard) may accept not less than 100,000 men and not more than 250,000 men annually for a six-months' training program.

3—Personnel with service prior to 27 July 1953 will not be required to participate in active duty for training or in inactive duty training in the Ready Reserve.

4—Men who fail to take an active part in the Reserve training program can be called to active training duty for periods up to 45 days each year.

5—Those who complete the 6-month training program and then fail to serve satisfactorily in the Reserve components can be drafted for two years.

Pentathlon Site

The 1955 Inter-Service Triathlon Championships will be held 28-29 June at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., which also will be the training site for the U. S. Modern Pentathlon team which will represent this country in the 1955 Modern Pentathlon World Championships in Switzerland during October.

Ft. Houston was selected as the site for these activities because of availability of training facilities and climate, which is conducive to year-round training. Candidates for the U. S. Modern Pentathlon team are expected at Ft. Sam Houston during August and will train for 60 days.

ARMY ENDS VC AND PHARMACY COURSES

Army ROTC courses at six veterinary and three pharmacy colleges will be phased out beginning with end of the current academic year.

There is a limited requirement for veterinarians in the Army, and this need has been met largely through those veterinarians who have an obligation for military service, a Pentagon announcement said.

Students scheduled to enter the fourth year of Veterinary or Pharmacy ROTC for the next academic year will be permitted to complete their courses of instruction in fulfillment of their advanced course contracts. All other students currently enrolled in the Veterinary or Pharmacy programs will be offered an opportunity to transfer to any other ROTC course now being conducted at the institutions which they attend.

All of the Services currently are reviewing ROTC programs in the light of present manpower demands. It is believed that there will be additional cut-backs in ROTC training before start of the next school year.

Pentagon Opposes

MacArthur Promotion

The Defense Department believes that a promotion for General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, USA-Ret., would "downgrade" other officers in the eyes of the public.

Several bills have been introduced in the Congress to secure a new title for General MacArthur. The proposals would give him the rank of General of the Armies, previously held only by the late John J. Pershing.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee asked for the Defense Department views.

Mr. Richard A. Buddeke, Director of the Pentagon's Office of Legislative Programs, said "there can be no accurate measure of the relative contributions of great leaders" and that "readjustment long after the nation has carefully weighed the service and standing of these leaders would becloud earlier action" and arouse "misunderstanding" and "controversies" which "would ill serve the nation, General of the Army MacArthur, and his . . . colleagues of the same grade."
